RESIDENTIAL SUBSTANCE ABUSE SERVICES

Mission: the purpose of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe Behavioral Health Programs is to provide comprehensive, individualized and holistic outpatient and residential substance abuse treatment and mental health services to Native Americans encompassed in the designated service area. A cultural and sensitive approach shall be taken in the delivery of counseling, outreach, crisis intervention, administrative services, preventative measures, evaluation and planning for appropriate mental health and substance abuse services and referrals to the clients served.

Philosophy: Behavioral Health programs shall be to help the community members to identify those tools and resources necessary to achieve a balance in their life. The Medicine Wheel concept of integrating the four components of spiritual, emotional, physical and intellectual aspects of a person's life into a holistic model of recovery is the heart of Nog-da-win-da-meg "Taking care of one another".

Program Goals

- Promote balance and harmony within individuals and the community.
- Provide residential treatment for Saginaw Chippewa Indian Community members.
- Provide AOD treatment services reducing personal, family, social, physical, emotional, and cultural/spiritual distress to individuals.
- Provide culturally sensitive clinical services inclusive to traditional spiritual values and attitudes when appropriate.
- Provide an homelike environment that is met with honesty, humility, truthfulness, bravery, respect, love, and wisdom.
- Provide documentation and evaluation of services pertaining to all client activities, planning, management, support services and training.
- Provide coordinated professional referral sources as a network of recovery support linkages.
