

He'll tell you it's a petition to create jobs or fund scholarships.

BUT THERE'S MORE TO THE STORY.

BEWARE

of petition circulators with big promises.

It's the season when people are outside the post office or the grocery store with their petitions and promises. There are two proposals in particular you need to know about.

Both promise to deliver more state funding for things we care about. But the petition circulators don't tell you the whole story:

-  One proposal gives a single company the right to open 7 new casinos. The other proposal gives 5 race track owners casino licenses and 3 other casino licenses to somebody else.
-  Both proposals take away the right of local communities to vote on whether to allow a casino to be built. If you sign the petition, you sign away your vote if these proposals pass.
-  Both proposals are loaded with loopholes for how the money will be spent. It's the Lottery flim-flam all over again.
-  And both proposals give a tiny number of people constitutionally-guaranteed casino licenses — and there's no disclosure about who these people even are.

If someone asks you to sign one of these petitions, you should STEER CLEAR. Don't sign away your right to vote — and don't write so many loopholes into the Michigan Constitution.
