Spring distribution nets local governments and schools $2.6 million

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK
Photojournalist

The Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribal Council released their annual two percent distribution for the spring 2014 season where more than $2.6 million was given to local governments and schools.

Local units of government and public schools will be able to share $1,981,585.21 in Isabella County and $627,888.41 in Northern Bay and Arenac Counties.

In contrast to the spring 2013 distribution, the amount given to Isabella County decreased by $138,159.92 and the Saganing distribution totals decreased by $11,703.86.

Those funds come from net gaming proceeds from Class III games of chance. Items such as computer labs, text books, roads resurfacing and much more are purchased county wide with these proceeds.

As with other years, the Tribal Council pours over many different requests. This year there were a combined 439 individual requests. Local governments turned in 108 and 331 were handed in from local schools.

Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Chief Steven Pego welcomes the opportunity to look at each and every request and Tribal Council takes their time before making a decision to fund the submission.

"We look at many factors when reviewing those requests but most importantly we ask ourselves, 'how will the approval of the request provide a positive benefit for everyone'," Chief Pego said. "With limited resources through the two percent funds, we need to stay within our budget but we do find it provides a path to with other local leaders and schools."

Tribal Public Relations Director Frank Cloutier informs even though the revenue hasn't increased from the last fall distribution, the numbers of requests are growing.

"I believe this is a true reflection of our economy and our resilience of having a successful business operation," Cloutier said. "We will continue to find ways to partner with community interests to make maximum impact of those dollars in a mutually beneficial way for all parties."

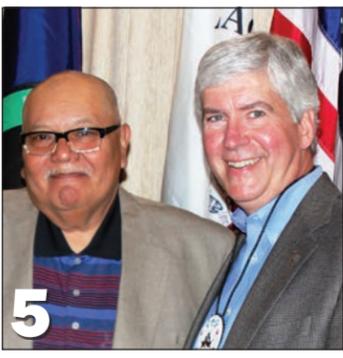

Isabella local units of government will share $1,233,462.46 while the school district throughout Isabella County will share $748,122.75.

Distribution for Isabella County occurred Thursday,

May 29 at 9 a.m. in the Tribal Operations Seniors Room.

Arenac and Northern Bay Counties will share $409,779.71. Arenac and Pinconning schools will share $218,108.70. Distribution for Saganing occurred Friday, May 30 at 11 a.m.

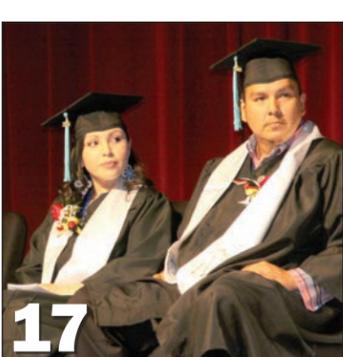

Please contact Frank J. Cloutier, Public Relations director, at 989-775-4076 or at fcloutier@sagchip.org for more information regarding the two percent distribution process.

Repatriation continues as remains return from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK
Photojournalist

On April 28, the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe of Michigan and its Ziibiwing Center of Anishinabe Culture & Lifeways had another historic repatriation victory as ancestral remains returned from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst.

One Native ancestor and 762 associated funerary objects made the trip home from the UMass collection accompanied by three more ancestors with the help of the Michigan State Police Post from Houghton Lake, Mich.

Ziibiwing Director Shannon Martin mentions returning ancestors and their funerary objects back home to Mother Earth is very important and it is a proud moment for Indian Country.

"To bring our ancestors home and to put them back with all of the others who have been returned to the reservation through repatriation; it is historic," Martin said. "We are happy to bring those ancestors back and even if it's funerary objects, we are happy to bring them home and bury them into the ground. It is not about numbers, it is about continuing to work daily on getting who we can home regardless of the collection."

Martin informs Ziibiwing and the Tribe have been

If Tears Could Build a Stairway

*If tears could build a stairway and memories a lane
I would walk right up to Heaven and bring you back again
No farewell words were spoken, no time to say "Good-bye"
You were gone before I knew it and only God knows why.
My heart still aches with sadness and secret tears still flow.
What it meant to love you—know one can ever know.
But now I know you want me to mourn for you no more.
To remember all the happy times life still has much in store.
Since you'll never be forgotten I pledge to you today
A hollowed place within my heart is where you'll always stay.*

The Utilities Department will be flushing hydrants the week of June 9-13. Annual hydrant flushing is done to remove sediment from the pipes in order to maintain water clarity and quality in the distribution system and to test the hydrants for adequate flow and pressure. Your water is safe to drink. Occasionally, water becomes discolored after hydrant flushing. If this happens, run your cold water tap for a few minutes until the water clears if it doesn't clear the first time wait a few minutes and run the water again. You should avoid washing clothes until the water clears.

Information regarding hydrant flushing can be obtained by calling 989-775-5141 or 989-775-5235 objects from museums, universities and institutions across the country since the passage of the 1990 Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, or NAGPRA.

“All the Tribes and all Anishinabek are exercising our sovereignty by participating in these types of activities and reburial of our ancestors,” Tribal Historic Preservation Officer Charmaine Shawana said. “I look forward to the day when all the ancestors are recovered and are all properly laid to rest in their original homelands, instead of languishing on the shelves of universities and museums.”

Ziibiwing Curator William Johnson is an integral component of all repatriation efforts of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe and marvels at the cooperative process it takes to return ancestors and funerary objects in a good way.

“I was very excited about working with Rae Gould of the University of Massachusetts-Amherst and Detective Sergeant Trietch of the Michigan State Police, Houghton Lake Post,” Johnson said. “I always love the work leading up to any repatriation and reburial. It was an honor assisting the Absentee-Shawnee Tribe of Oklahoma, Eastern Shawnee Tribe of Oklahoma and Shawnee Tribe of Oklahoma. We hosted Joseph Blanchard of the Absentee-Shawnee Tribe of Oklahoma, too. It was nice getting to know him and learning about his Tribal community as well.”

Johnson also acknowledged the support offered freely by many Native people and organizations.

“The commitment of our traditional religious leaders, Anishinabe Ogitchedaw Veterans and Warriors

The community gathers in a respectful way at the April 28 Nibokaan Cemetery repatriation ceremony.

Society and our own Tribal community was awe-inspiring,” Johnson said. “Much work goes (into the) repatriation and we at the Ziibiwing Center want to make sure we are doing this in a traditional and respectful way with the medicine and the ceremonial teaching lighting our path. It was a pleasure to bring these culturally-affiliated ancestors and associated funerary objects home.”

The final resting place was at the Nibokaan Cemetery on the Saginaw Chippewa Reservation. The Nibokaan Cemetery was established in 1995 through Tribal Chief Gail Jackson and Tribal Council as the resting place for repatriated ancestors.

As the ceremony was finished, members of the Anishinabe Ogitchedaw Veterans Warriors Society assisted with carrying the remains to their final resting place. Funerary objects were also buried with the remains. After the reburial ceremony, a traditional feast was held at the Ziibiwing Center.

United Tribes of Michigan meet with Gov. Snyder at Tribal-State Summit

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK

Photojournalist

On May 12-13, the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe hosted the 12 federally-recognized Tribal leaders and their delegates at the annual United Tribes of Michigan, or UTM, meeting held in the Three Fires Room at the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort.

Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Chief Steven Pego welcomed the delegation during the opening ceremonies with a prayer offered by Tribal Council Chaplain Jennifer Wassegijig.

“It is always an honor to host our fellow tribes and to have our Council able to talk with the other Tribal leaders,” Chief Pego said. “Tribal issues are best addressed with the elected officials present and to have Gov. Rick Snyder be a part of these discussions demonstrates the state government’s willingness to be an active participant in the dialogue.”

Gov. Snyder agreed there are many issues that the state and the Tribes can work together on.

Tribal Public Relations Director Frank Cloutier and his staff took the lead role in coordinating the UTM Tribal-State Summit logistics and welcomed the efforts made on behalf of all the Tribal leaders present.

“The opportunities and collaboration that is brought to the table during the State/Tribal Summits are very helpful,” Cloutier said. “When you have leadership from the State of Michigan and the 12 Native nations, you have clear communication and can easily identify like-minded issues to be discussed.”

Gov. Snyder did commend the Tribes and their support of environmental issues and the efforts United Tribes represent on consolidating their voice in chorus on issues that affect all the citizens of Michigan.

“We appreciate the efforts the Tribes are making to develop new leaders and offering internship opportunities to work within the government,” Gov. Snyder said. “I believe we can offer some fruitful opportunities to students who work with the Office of the Governor and the State Legislature.”

Nottawaseppi Huron Band of the Potawatomi Chairman and current UTM President Homer Mandoka personally thanked Chief Pego and the SCIT Tribal Council for hosting the Tribal leaders and their delegates.

“On behalf of the UTM delegates, we are honored to have the Saginaw Chippewa Tribe be a gracious host for such an important event,” President Mandoka said. “Being located in the center of the Lower Peninsula makes the travel arrangements easier and the hospitality given through the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort deserves high marks.”

The Tribal-State Summit visit marked the second occasion a State of Michigan Governor has visited a UTM function hosted by SCIT on the reservation. Former Governor, Jennifer Granholm, visited the Tribe at the 2008 UTM meeting.

During the closing remarks, Chief Pego shared a traditional teaching of how water is important to the Tribe and he was joined by fellow Council members as they presented Gov. Snyder with a beaded Tribal logo necklace made by Tribal member Theresa Jackson.

Saganing Eagles Landing April Employees of the Month

CHRISTY FEDAK

Administrative Assistant

Congratulations to the Saganing Eagles Landing Casino Employees of the Month Tammy Manyen and Jackie Cunningham.

Tammy is a finance supervisor who has been with the SELC since we opened. She was nominated by her co-workers on the terrific job she does!

Tammy is organized and loves to work on new projects.

problems and malfunctions. Tammy is quick to thank the cashiers and soft count team for going above and beyond their normal duties.

She also shows compassion for her co-workers. When a cashier's husband passed away and she called to inform her supervisors, Tammy was working and helped her stay calm on the phone until the police had arrived. Thank you, Tammy, for all you do!

Jackie is part of our wait staff and has been with the SELC since we opened. She is very dependable and we can always count on her to volunteer to pick up shifts when needed.

Jackie is willing to come in on short notice for any shift. She also trains our new wait staff associates. Jackie will help out with prepping whenever needed in the Aerie Cafe.

She is polite and a joy to work with. You will never catch Jackie standing around; she is our go-getter gal. Thank you, Jackie, for being outstanding!

Self-Esteem Program shows youth ways to build confidence

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

"Don't let anyone tell you you're not good enough" were spoken words of advice at the Self-Esteem Building Program for youth on May 5 at Seventh Generation.

A few years ago, after talking with clients addicted to drugs and alcohol, Healthy Start Child Nurse Helen Williams noticed they had something in common: low self-esteem.

"The clients all said they did not feel good about themselves," Williams said. "They felt like they did not deserve to be treated well and were lucky to have the friends they had, despite the negative impact that these people had on them."

Williams decided to get an early start in educating youth on positive self-esteem.

"The changing hormonal levels of the adolescent brain can wreak havoc on a person's sense of self," Williams said. "Negative body issues, or anxiety about relationships or peer groups, can cause teens to become depressed, angry or agitated, or turn to drugs and alcohol in an effort to stop negative feelings of self-loathing. Helping youth understand how to recognize the signs that may occur if someone is using pre-existing negative feelings of self to control them, or manipulate them into doing something they don't want to just so they will fit in, is critical."

West Intermediate and Mount Pleasant and Shepherd High School students gathered for positive self-esteem lessons, but not without a few words from proud Tribal Chief Steven Pego.

"On this reservation, we are learning our culture and language and to be proud of who we are - we call it 'finding our Center Fire'," Chief Pego said. "I appreciate every youth here on this reservation. Every little baby that is born here is going to be a leader. The Elders say the eighth fire will be lit because of you guys; you are the ones that will carry everything into the future."

Chief Pego emphasized the importance on schooling. Getting your education is the "new warrior" thing to do, he said to the youth.

"We want to inspire every one of you," he said. "You are the most important person on this earth, especially on this reservation. It is very important you get your education."

Interim Education Director Melissa Montoya shared her previous struggle with self-esteem and how faith and culture helped her find self-love and success, along with Youth LEAD Diversion Manager Guadalupe Gonzalez who discussed helping your family and letting your family help you, and Youth Support Coach Kevin Ricketts touched on how to be a team player.

Nimkee Fitness Coordinator Jayme Green conducted a 20-minute workout promoting fitness self-esteem building, and Healthy Start Child Nurse Anna Hon presented "laugh yoga."

Wilma Henry and Lee Ann Ruffino, of Seventh Generation, prepared a cultural teaching and craft. Students then wrote down positive words that best describe themselves.

Henry also shared her story of growing up. With an alcoholic father, and a mentally abusive mother, Henry wanted to be the best mother she could be, and not carry on the abusive characteristics of her parents.

"When you grow up in that kind of situation, it gets really hard to feel good about yourself," Henry said. "You also have to learn that even though you try to bring your children up the best way you can, they may fall off the path. But if you feel good about yourself and love yourself, you're going to experience things and go through learning phases in your life; just remember to always be strong and love yourself."

Youths' self-esteem is generally influenced by what their peers think of them.

"According to what I have been told by survivors of drug and alcohol addictions, the low self-esteem could not be changed by loving parents or family," Williams said. "They simply trusted more what their peers said than their family. They just wanted to be accepted, it did not matter with whom; they just wanted to fit in. I feel if we help the youth learn to look for negative influences, recognize them and avoid them we can start to help them understand self-worth and avoid the pitfalls of low self-esteem."

It was a departmental collaborative effort that made the self-esteem event possible.

"The overwhelming willingness and excitement generated from all departments was impressive," Williams said. "Working as a team was really the key to making this program happen for our Tribal youth; it was impressive again this year. We all are definitely unified when it comes to doing whatever we can to make a difference in the lives of the youth."

Nimkee Healthy Start Child Nurse Anna Hon teaches the youth positive self-esteem and wellbeing with "laugh yoga."

Submitting claims to your Part D Plan for prescription drugs while in observation status

MIKKI MARCOTTE

Case Manager

The use of Medicare observation status in hospitals has increased dramatically throughout the past several years.

The problem with the observation status is financial liability for any post-hospitalization care at a skilled nursing facility (you must have a three-day inpatient stay to have rehab paid for by Medicare). However, many Medicare patients find themselves facing large hospital bills for drugs they received while in outpatient observation status.

When a patient is in outpatient observation status at a hospital, Medicare Part B is billed, and pays for 80 percent of the hospital services provided (Part A pays for inpatient hospital admissions). However, outpatient prescription drugs received in the hospital while a patient is in observation status are not billed to Part B. Instead, the patient must submit a claim to his/her outpatient drug plan, usually a Medicare Part D plan, to receive reimbursement for these drugs.

Part D plans are required to have a process in place to pay claims submitted by Medicare beneficiaries who received drugs while they are hospital outpatients. All Part D plans must ensure that enrollees have access to Part D-covered drugs dispensed at "out-of-network pharmacies."

These out-of-network pharmacies include "institution-based" pharmacies; those in a hospital.

Patients in observation status at a hospital cannot be expected to get their outpatient drugs from a pharmacy that contract with their Part D plan (a CVS or Walgreens). Rather, they must take the drugs given to them by the hospital, dispensed from the hospital's out-of-network pharmacy.

To submit claims, Medicare beneficiaries should call their Part D plan and request an out-of-network pharmacy claim form as soon as they are able, and should check their Part D Evidence of Coverage for any applicable deadlines.

However, individual plans will likely have different forms. Beneficiaries should submit the completed claim form supplied by their plan and include the bill for medications from the hospital as well as a letter explaining that they were in observation status at the hospital and could not get to an in-network pharmacy. They should cite Chapter 5, Section 60.1 of the Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit Manual in their letter to the plan to remind the Part D plan of their responsibility to pay.

Beneficiaries should remember that if the drugs they received in the hospital are not on the Part D plan's formulary, they may need to ask the Part D plan for an exception to have the drugs covered.

After the Part D plan covers the drugs, beneficiaries will still be liable for co-pays. These co-pays may be higher because the hospital pharmacy is an out-of-network pharmacy. Unfortunately, outpatient hospital observation status continues to be a problem for Medicare beneficiaries.

We recently illustrated certain features of the work of educating the Indians at the Normal and Agricultural Institute at Hampton, Va. In our present Number we add further illustrations of the same subject, upon which, on January 22d, General S. C. Armstrong, Principal of the Institution, addressed an audience of leading merchants and capitalists of New York at the Chamber of Commerce. General Armstrong, after explaining the circumstances under which the experiment of Indian education was undertaken, said that at present there are 67 Indian boys and girls at the Institute, besides 250 negroes of both sexes. This system of mingling them with each other is found to be better for their morals than the separation plan. No race conflict is allowed. The Indians absorb the ideas of civilization just as they inhale the air they breathe. It is proposed to put these Indian boys at trades or on farms, in order that they may learn the true secret of the white man's power. This is better than showing him big guns and public buildings, and loading him down with presents. The girls are born drudges, and expect to work. The boys do not see the point of hard labor, but would rather sit on the ground than hoe any day. But their dislike for labor will be gradually overcome as they are introduced into the workshops and upon farms. The older Indians make little progress in their studies; the younger ones learn rapidly. In the three and a half months that they have been there they have taken up more ideas of work than they would have done in three years at their own homes. The Government pays $167 each for the forty-nine Dakota Indians.

The Rev. Dr. H. W. Bellows, following General Armstrong, said the Indians cost an immense amount of money, and they cost the national reputation, by the manner in which the Government dealt with them. "They cost us," he said, "our character as Christian people. As the result of the ten years of civilizing and Christianizing experiment, we find that 75,000 out of 300,000 are already civilized; 150,000 are semi-civilized, leaving one-quarter who may be said to be in a savage condition. I double if their savageness is greater than 75,000 persons who could be roll-called in the City of New York. There are 116,000 Indians who know how to read and write. There are 29,000 Indian church members, and 300 church buildings among the Indians. It is perfect nonsense to talk about Indians not being susceptible to civilizing influences."

Professor R. D. Hitchcock closed the meeting by a peroration in which he remarked that where 100 civilized men can stay and till the soil, one savage hunts and fishes. We have been on this continent 250 years face to face with a race which we cannot deny are men and have a mission to fulfill. Congress should place the Indian on the same footing as the Swede or other foreigner who preempts his 120 acres of ground, and let him know that this possession, properly worked, not only gives him his existence but an heirloom to his family. Then churches, homesteads, and educational institutions will spring up among them, and the problem of Indian civilization will be promptly solved.

Of our present illustrations, the first shows the sons of three Gros Ventres and Sioux chiefs, very bright and promising boys; the second, three girls between nine and thirteen years of age — Sarah Walker, of the Gros Ventres, Anna, of the Arickarees, and Carrie Anderson, of the Uncahpa Sioux; the third, Little Chief, of the Cheyennes, and one of the St. Augustine prisoners, welcoming two new students — One-Who-Carries-Flying, a Sioux, and White Wolf, an Arickaree; the fourth, the nine girls who were first sent to the school; and the fifth, a group of the youngest boys. It was intended that an equal number of boys and girls should be sent to Hampton, but Captain Pratt was able to obtain only nine girls, the principal reason being, that, as the females do all the hard work, they are too valuable to be spared by their husbands and fathers.

Ziibiwing Changing Exhibit and CMU Archeological Field School recollect MIIBS

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

The Ziibiwing Center of Anishinabe Culture and Lifeways presented its Changing Exhibit Part II- 3D Objects. The “Debwewin/Truth: The Mount Pleasant Indian Industrial Boarding School Experience” grand opening occurred April 30 at 12 p.m.

The exhibit reveals historical and archeological research of the school, along with present-day influences quoted by Tribal members whose family members were affected by the Mount Pleasant Indian Industrial Boarding School, or MIIBS.

Part II of the exhibit added 3D objects including MIIBS Honoring, Healing and Remembering Commemorative Quilt, the MIIBS Student Memorial Quilt, the student memorial guitar that features the SCIT and Ziibiwing logos and woodland floral designs, postcards of MIIBS and many artifacts found on the MIIBS grounds.

During the Part II grand opening, a presentation was also given by Central Michigan University Archeological Field School colleagues.

Dr. Sarah Surface-Evans of CMU’s Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work has collaborated with the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe of Michigan and Ziibiwing since June 2011. Surface-Evans is an active member of the MIIBS Committee committed to transforming, preserving and financing the development of MIIBS to become a place for healing, education and wellness at a local, national and global level.

“Dr. Surface-Evans is a trusted member of the Protecting and Maintaining Tribal Heritage Sites subcommittee and she has gathered archeological data at the MIIBS including conducting botanical surveys, geophysical analysis and test excavations to investigate the history of the school and its former students,”

Ziibiwing Curator William Johnson said. “The results of this research will support public education about the Federal Boarding School program and assist in the nomination of the property to the National Register of Historic Places.”

Archaeology provides an alternative method of reconstructing events of the past, Dr. Surface-Evans said during her “A Landscape of Assimilation and Resistance” presentation.

The roles of archaeology reconstruct the past MIIBS landscape, assess whether artifacts and deposits from MIIBS are intact and investigate the lives of the former students.

There are many indicators of power and authority through archeology research at MIIBS.

“The land or structures of the school were used in a way to convey power and authority and to (showcase) the goals of the Feds,” Dr. Surface-Evans said.

The shape of the girl’s dormitory building is an example.

“The buildings are a federal style, typical of the late 19th century and used in public buildings including town halls, hospitals and prisons,” Dr. Surface-Evans said. “This was a style that basically posed the ideas of government order and structure.”

In the heart of campus was a classroom and chapel building, and in the center was a gazebo.

“Some of the stories that I heard from Elders and community members suggested that the gazebo was frequently used by administrators to entertain dignitaries, and people would be brought in to observe the school and the experiment that it represented,” Dr. Surface-Evans said. “I was utterly shocked and surprised when we excavated at the gazebo that one of the first things we found was an actual steak bone, suggesting that people were eating really well at the gazebo. We also did excavations at the dump site of a former garbage dump on the property: the food remains we found were things like tin cans and chicken bones. So the students weren’t eating well, but obviously someone was, and it probably wasn’t children that were eating steaks at the gazebo.”

The Ziibiwing Changing Exhibit Part II displays 3D objects including the MIIBS Student Memorial Quilt, each square represents a MIIBS student and was decorated by a family member.

Displayed in the Ziibiwing Changing Exhibit Part II are the many buttons and marbles found at MIIBS during excavations. Emerald green tray beads that students may have smuggled in from their homes are also featured in the exhibit.

“It is believed buttons could be used as tokens or currency to engage in various activities planned, such as powwows that were conducted in secret in the basements of buildings or in the forest just north of campus,” Dr. Surface-Evans said.

Presentations were also given by CMU graduate students including: “A Reconstruction of the Mount Pleasant Indian Industrial Boarding School Landscape” by Patrick Lawton, “The Carvings on the Buildings of the Mount Pleasant Indian Industrial Boarding School” by Sarah Hegyi and “Investigation of the Mission Creek Cemetery” by S.K. Haase.

The students shared their proudest moments of discovering items at the MIIBS property.

“S.K. and I were in a unit at the laundry building when we found a toothbrush handle that was made of bone,” Hegyi said. “We found out later that bone handles... are very old... from the 19th century.”

“Because it was from (the) laundry (building), and not from a dorm or place where a child would have left it, it seems to me it was probably a toothbrush used to scrub laundry or floors,” Dr.

Dr. Sarah Surface-Evans and students Sarah Hegyi, Patrick Lawson and S.K Haase discuss their archeological findings on the MIIBS grounds.

Surface-Evans said. “It wasn’t a personal object; it doesn’t have initials carved on it as the students were required to keep track (of their belongings).”

The laundry building burnt down multiple times under mysterious circumstances.

“Children were forced to do a lot of work there out of punishment,” Hegyi said. “It’s not a very happy, memorable building.”

The CMU students have been very respectable and passionate about their work at MIIBS.

“All students that have been involved have been incredible,” Dr. Surface-Evans said. “They all dedicated so many hours to this project.”

Ziibiwing Director Shannon Martin acknowledged Dr. Surface-Evans and the students for their collaboration, hard work and research.

“These things are done in the most respectful, reverential and loving way, as evident by these wonderful students,” Martin said. “When we celebrate success and understanding the history, we are able to provide more opportunity for awareness and truth-telling.”

The Part II MIIBS Changing Exhibit is on display until Sept. 30, 2014. Many of the artifact findings are showcased.

WIGWAM WISDOM

The Wigwam has sheltered our ancestors from storms and bad weather since the dawn of time. The wigwam has witnessed the hardships our people have had to endure not only through the hands of change and war, but upon our strongest enemies, ourselves. The spirit of the wigwam does not forget and keeps with it the wisdom to guide the souls that have strayed back to a peaceful life.

(WW is intended entertainment purposes only. Please make sure to seek professional counseling when necessary.)*

Dear WW: Me and my brother are both responsible working adults and parents. The problem is our parents are not. A few years ago, they lost their house and we stepped in to help them out. We got them situated in a nice, comfortable apartment. The trouble is their finances (or lack of) and that they ask our advice and never take it! Of course, we feel obligated to help them as they are our parents. However, I can see the same pattern immersing and we will be called to help out soon enough. How and where do we draw the line and not feel guilty? Immature Parents

Dear Parents: You have no reason for feeling guilty when helping out your parents. However, enabling them is a different story. If they don't take your advice after asking for it, quit giving it. You might have a better conversation with the wall but most likely the same outcome! I know it may seem harsh but you do not owe your parents anything! Letting them feel the misery and pain of being without gives them the ability to figure it out for themselves. Are alcohol/drugs or gambling involved? Is someone taking advantage of them? Perhaps this situation needs a referral to Social Services? Sometimes the lesson is better learned from an outside source instead of family.

Dear WW: I am a newlywed and have done everything by the book in my life. I graduated from high school and college, have a good steady job and now that I am married, I have been contemplating a family with my new husband. However, I am not sure if parenthood is for me. I am very independent and am used to doing what I want, when I want. That will not be an easy thing with a child. My husband says I can still do whatever I want and that he will be available for our child, no matter what. That seems a little unfair to me and I would rather wait until I'm ready and from the looks of it, I may never be. How will I know? Ready or Not

Dear Ready: As prepared as we would like to be, no one is truly prepared to have a child that has never had one. The things you predict may not be true and the things you think are so, prove not to be. Stability and maturity will guide you and are your best indicators of having a well-rounded child and family. You may not want to be as independent as you think once you have a child. Having a child is a life-changing event that can be a rewarding experience. Only you can answer the question of knowing when things are right. I applaud you for doing things "by the book" and know whatever decision you make will not be made in haste!

Dear WW: My brother, who was married more than 10 years, is now divorced. However, not by choice, but because his wife left him for another man. I see the hurt that she has caused him and his family, and to be blunt, I can't stand the sight of her. The problem is that I have had run ins with her and don't know if I will be able to hold my tongue much longer. She needs to realize how much hurt and pain she has caused. Should I blast her or continue to pretend she doesn't exist? Time Bomb

Dear Bomb: Do you think that by telling her with spoken words she will understand? My guess is that she probably already knows and a.) is a selfish woman who doesn't care or b.) is a selfish woman who doesn't care. Your best bet is to pretend she doesn't exist. Put your energy into your brother who obviously is left holding the bag. Sometimes people don't realize how much hurt and destruction they have caused others until it is too late until it is too late. Don't waste your time on her, your brother needs you now.

Jango

Jango is a male hound mix! He would love to cuddle up with you and also go for long walks through the woods as a possible hunting companion!

When he is outside, his nose is always to the ground exploring all the new scents and listening for sounds! We have seen Jango with many volunteers and he seems to love everyone that he meets! Jango has also done well with other female dogs while in our care! We would not recommend Jango for a home with cats as he seems a little bit too interested in sniffing and chasing them! A true hound dog at heart.

Justice

A lot of people assume that because I'm a big-boned cat, I'm also a tough guy. Well, I'll be the first to tell you that's not the case. I'm a sensitive, quiet cat with aspirations of becoming an advocate for all black cats. We're not unlucky - your luck improves once we're in your life! I get along great with other cats and some small dogs!

Tribal Council honors Rep. Dave Camp for work in Indian Country

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

As Michigan Rep. Dave Camp recently announced he will not run for reelection this year, Tribal Council for the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe wanted to honor him for his work in Indian Country.

Tribal Council and Rep. Camp, along with Congress representatives and Tribal Public Relations, were welcomed to a luncheon in the Ziibiwing Center conference room on Monday, May 5.

Tribal Council presented Camp with a significant gift.

“On behalf of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe, we are honored to present a blanket as a sovereignty blanket with the Tribal logo on it,” Tribal Chief Steven Pego said. “We want to give this small token of appreciation for our friendship in Indian Country and for our dear friend Dave Camp.”

Rep. Camp, on his 12th term, began his association with Indian Country in the early ‘80s.

“I do remember (SCIT) Chief Sowmick telling me what it was like to be a leader; he didn’t know whether people were following him or they were chasing him,” Rep. Camp said triggering laughter. “I just want to thank you for the tremendous support you’ve given me over the years. I couldn’t have done this job for 12 terms and I’m very humbled and grateful. Thank you for this beautiful gift.”

Tribal Council presents Rep. Dave Camp with a blanket to honor his work in Indian Country.

Congressman Dan Benishek (R-MI1) also attended the luncheon.

“Dan has been a good friend of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe for some time,” Public Relations Director Frank Cloutier said. “He lives on the other side of the Bridge with our cousins and he knows our culture. He’s a good fit for us here in Mid-Michigan, and he’s a good fit for us here in Indian Country.”

“We’ve had a great delegation in Michigan and I’ve been so proud to be a part of it,” Benishek said. “I’m very proud to represent this area for the Michigan tribe. My door is always open and my phone is always there for Tribal leadership to inform on issues.”

On April 1, State Sen. John Moolenaar, who also attended the event, announced he will seek election to run for Camp’s seat to represent Michigan’s 4th Congressional District.

Moolenaar stated he has always been interested in and respected Native American culture and heritage.

Moolenaar is a lifelong resident of Midland, Mich. where he currently resides.

Rep. Camp, on his 12th term, recently announced he will not run for reelection this year.

The primary election will be held in August. Michigan’s 4th Congressional District includes parts of 15 counties: Clare, Clinton, Gladwin, Gratiot, Isabella, Mecosta, Midland, Missaukee, Montcalm, Ogemaw, Osceola, Roscommon, Saginaw, Shiawassee and Wexford.

Tribal school and recreation center project unveils naming contest

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK

Photojournalist

The Tribal school recreation center project/building needs a name. Similar to many efforts within the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe of Michigan, input and ideas are being sought from the community.

Project Consultant Bonnie Ekdahl was hired by Tribal Council in May 2013 to develop and form the planning team that will bring the vision into focus.

The planning team is comprised of members from the three departments who will be located at this new facility; LEAD (Leadership, Engagement, Activities, Diversion), Education Department/Saginaw Chippewa Academy and the Anishinabe Language Revitalization Department/Sasiwaans.

The LEAD Team planning members include Youth LEAD Director Jennifer Crawford, Leadership Manager Deb Smith, Activities Manager Ronnie Ekdahl and Diversion Manager Guadalupe Gonzalez.

The ALRD Team planning members consist of ALRD Director Angela Mitchell, Administrative Assistant II Mary Shomin and SCA AB Teacher and ALRD Board member Nathan Isaac.

SCIT Education Director Melissa Montoya, SCA Principal Marcella Mosqueda and TEAB member Kathy Hart are Tribal Education Team members.

Tribal Operations Administrator Dustin Davis and Rosanna Romero also serve on the planning team.

“I am very proud of the team and the impressive work they have done so far,” Bonnie Ekdahl said. “They have been meeting on a regular basis to plan this dynamic new youth facility. This facility will have a positive impact on the future of our community and the planning team was in agreement that naming this effort should be taken to the people.”

At the May 14 planning team meeting, discussions defined that the major project components include the following spaces; three-in-one gymnasium, auxiliary gym, locker rooms, early childhood center, elementary school kindergarten to 6th grade, virtual academy for 7th to 12th grades, community activity spaces, library, music and art studio, STEM lab and cultural program space.

“The meetings were scheduled with the intention of giving each group an opportunity to speak openly about shared program areas, barriers, how organizational changes should occur, and the idea of creating a shared sanctioned board or committee,” Bonnie Ekdahl said. “To assist our community in framing out creative name ideas, the planning team has created a vision and a statement about the work they have undertaken.”

The planning team consensus is they “want to lead, educate and prepare our youth and families toward healthy lifestyles with a safe and nurturing environment utilizing the spiritual, physical, emotional and mental wellbeing of our Anishinabe teachings.”

They have also mutually agreed they “need to create a collaborative cultural intervention system that defines roles and responsibilities along with the ability to measure impact of services provided to defined target groups.”

Please submit ideas to Project Consultant Bonnie Ekdahl directly. A prize will be awarded to the winning entry. Deadline is June 17, 2014. Ideas must be submitted in writing and can be emailed to bekdahl@sagchip.org or mailed to 7070 E Broadway, Mt. Pleasant, MI 48858. If you need help with an Ojibwe translation, please contact the ALRD office at 989-775-4110.

SEWPH April Employee of the Month

NICOLE ROGERS

Promotions Coordinator

Congratulations, Ben Dans, for being selected as the Soaring Eagle Water Park and Hotel April Employee of the Month.

Ben works as a lifeguard at SEWPH. Recently, he went above and beyond with a group who had an emergency situation. This is a true example of what sets us apart from the competition. The following letter was submitted by a guest:

Dear Soaring Eagle Water Park and Hotel staff,

When our family arrived on Friday evening, my son had a seizure in the parking lot. Even though the line was long, the manager on duty went into action and notified the medical staff. Ben, one of the lifeguards, helped my son to the showers and helped change his clothes. The staff checked our family into their rooms; we had five rooms and four people per room. My mother who has stage four ovarian cancer and my son were comfortably inside their rooms within 30 minutes.

The lifeguard, Ben, continued to check on my mother and my son throughout our stay. The hotel staff was awesome. The lifeguard staff was very patient with my son on all of the activities in the park. My son has CP and can be very slow moving. They were very supportive, and assisted him as he went down the slide and other activities. Thank you so much for a great stay and an awesome family trip.

Seven GED recipients recognized at Aabizikaawin Adult Ed Graduation

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

On May 6, seven adults were honored during the Aabizikaawin Adult Education Graduation Ceremony in the Eagle's Nest Tribal gym.

The GED recipients: Kristin Hinmon, Shelby Hinmon-Pelcher, Brendan Mandamin, Adam Sawmick, Tanesha Trudeau, Lucinda Wentworth and Shania

Guest speaker Christina Otto shared her story of overcoming past struggles and earning her bachelor's degree.

Whitepigeon received their diplomas from Interim Education Director Melissa Montoya.

Keynote speaker and Aabizikaawin alumnus Christina Otto shared her hardships during her education process. After overcoming her struggles and facing addiction, Otto received her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University last month.

"There are a lot of people in the community and all around that want to see you succeed," Otto said to the graduates. "I've been amazed at the support I've gotten and couldn't have done this without the help of so many people involved."

Otto advised the graduates and community members to further their education and use available resources.

"We need Tribal Members running our government operations and agencies," Otto said. "We need members who are college educated, and who will run departments so they can be successful. We really need your help, and we need to encourage our children to do the same. They will be more likely to get their education when they see us do it, too."

Curriculum Instructional Coordinator Tara Schell gave the graduates much recognition.

"We are here for one reason and that reason is you," Schell said. "You are no longer part of the 40 million adults in this society who do not have a high school diploma... You have joined the other 19 million adults who have earned their GED since 1942."

"The past is part of who you are, the future is securely in your hands and today is filled with opportunities to grow and fulfill your lifelong dreams whatever that may be," she said. "I commend each and every one of you to not only have the courage to pursue your diploma, but to also stick with it... You could have easily stopped, but you chose to go on; you kept learning and furthered your education."

The Anishinabe Bmaadiziwin, Saginaw Chippewa Community Singers, performed a graduate honor song and Montoya offered closing remarks.

"Some of the most successful people were GED graduates: Bill Cosby, Wendy's founder; Dave Thomas and Senator Campbell," Montoya said. "You can do anything with this diploma you have now, it does not end here."

Congratulations to the GED recipients!

Youth LEAD 2014 Graduation Banquet honors alumnae and their mentors

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

"Be who you are and say what you think because those who mind don't matter, and those that matter don't mind," John Shelton, youth achievement advisor, quoted Dr. Seuss at the 2014 Youth LEAD Graduation Banquet on May 19.

Proud families gathered in the Eagles Nest Tribal gym in celebration of their beloved graduates. During dinner, a PowerPoint presentation displayed the graduates' baby photos, current photos, favorite quotes and future plans.

Emcee and Public Relations Director Frank Cloutier and Tribal Chief Steven Pego both shared their words of wisdom to the graduates.

"I was a 1972 graduate of Mount Pleasant High and I still remember that day," Chief Pego said. "I remember we had a counselor that really took interest in me; he really wanted me to graduate... I told him I was going to come back and take his job... I always had that in my mind, so I studied my traditions and culture and became a helping healer at Behavioral Health, and to me that was a counselor."

Student alumni speaker and cadet officer Daniel Hernandez Jr. graduated Shepherd High School in 2010 and then joined the army for four years.

"When I joined the army, I was a 19-year-old kid and I still didn't know what I wanted to do," Hernandez said. "I found out I had my family and every time I called home, they'd always be there to encourage and pray for me to keep me going... I'm upset I had to go around the world to realize how much I love our community and my home... my family is my biggest driving factor."

Youth Achievement Advisors Charisse Yarch and Marta Escamilla introduced the graduates one-by-one.

The Mount Pleasant High School Tribal Member graduates include: Morgan Avery, Rachel Bigford, Breanna Colwell, Jonathon Curtis, Thomas Foster, Gilberto Franco Jr., Joseph Genia, Mak'yo George-Dye, Jessica Harris, Henery Howell, Alex Leureaux, Miino Pelcher, Shelby Read, Jacob Reed, Quinn Ritter, Maureen Reuckert, Matthew Shawnoo, Scott Sheahan, Gillian Shenoskey, Elizabeth Trasky and Taylor Williams.

Widening Advancement for Youth (W.A.Y) graduates: N'Kai Helms, Madison Shawnoo and Bethany Tarbell.

Shepherd High School graduates: Whitney Henry, Gena Leksche, Autumn

Neyome, Katelyn Pelcher and Charlie Watkins.

Odyssey High School graduate Eternity Native Welcome Page Leonard.

Students had the opportunity to honor one of their mentors that inspired them throughout their schooling experience. Many educators, vice principals, along with Yarch and Escamilla themselves, were recipients of the students' ISE (Inspire, Support, Encourage) Awards.

Shelton offered one last bit of advice to the graduates to close the ceremony.

"We all juggle our personal life, our family life, our academic life, our work life, our social life; and when any of those get out of balance, we've got to try to get them back in balance because that's when we get thrown off and start struggling," Shelton said. "One key thing I say to you is to strive for that balance. You need that balance between selfishness and selflessness. Take those two words with you because they are really important in life."

Congratulations to all of the 2014 graduates!

SCA Teaching Assistant Spickerman receives April "Educator of the Month"

CHRISTINA HALLIWILL
Administrative Assistant II

Education Administration would like to take this opportunity to showcase the shining stars in our department. We are proud of each and every team member within our department and think the community should know about you!

Congratulations, Karyn Spickerman, for being selected as our April Educator of the Month. The following is a questionnaire completed by Spickerman.

Which program do you work for? I work for the Saginaw Chippewa Academy.

What is your title? I am currently the Resource Room teacher's assistant, assisting a special needs student for half of the day and other students the rest of the day.

How long have you worked for the Education Department? I've been employed full time with SCA since 2005, prior to that I was a substitute teacher at SCA.

What is your funniest memory in working with our students? There are so many it's hard to pick just one... Years ago when I worked with 4th grade, we took a nature walk with a gentleman who has extensive knowledge of indigenous plants and wild life. He told the other teacher and me that we could eat the ends of cattails. So we all did. About three minutes later the other staff member looked at me and said very strangely, "I can't feel my tongue!" I realized that mine was going numb as well. We both looked at each other and said, "What have we done? We've poisoned the kids!" They were all fine, thankfully. Our guide laughed and told us this was a normal effect of the plant and not to worry. He thought it was hilarious. We weren't so amused. Later, the other staff member and I laughed with relief. What an unnatural experience!

What is your favorite part of working in this department? I adore all of the children! It's a new adventure every day!

When you were younger, what did you want to be when you grew up? Oh, as you grow up you change your mind so many times—I wanted to be a vet, then a police officer and always—a mom!

Something people may not know about you. My great-grandpa Carl Johnson designed and built the barrier free habitats (the bear dens) for many zoos including Detroit and St. Louis in the early 1900's. He was friends with Carl Perkins of Wild Kingdom fame (for you oldies!) and was quite an innovator.

Do you have any hobbies or special talents? For years I was an accomplished equestrian. I took some years off and now I am riding again with my daughter!

What is your favorite movie? "Comes a Horseman"

What is your favorite food? I love barbeque ribs and chocolate covered strawberries! Who doesn't?

Thank you so much for being such an integral part of our Education team. We appreciate you!

SCTC commencement ceremony honors the achievements of ten graduates

NATHANIEL LAMBERTSON
Dean of Students

On May 15, 2014, ten Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College students made history by becoming the 15th graduating class of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe's independent and fully-accredited college.

The Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College held its commencement exercises at the Soaring Eagle Casino and Resort's Entertainment Hall, and featured speaker and American Indian College Fund Trustee Kim Blanchard.

The event was also honored by the presence of the Great Lakes Alliance Singers, and Tribal Chief Steven Pego.

SCTC was proud Tribal Youth dancers Tommy Wemigwans

(6th grader at Mary McGuire, son of Jean Flamand), and Jasmyne Jackson (7th grader at Shepherd Middle School, daughter of Tonya Jackson) graciously led the graduate processional.

This graduation ceremony marks not only significant accomplishment for these students, but will forever stand as an achievement for the families, friends and teachers who supported them on their journey.

While a formal education is valuable, it is not the only way an individual can become knowledgeable, nor is it proof that an individual who has one is any better of a person than one who does not. But certainly part of what it is, in the Tribal college context, is proof that American Indians have the ability to assert control over their education and include in the body of knowledge that informs higher education American Indian values and culture.

Graduating with their Associate of Arts in Business were Brad Bennett, Maria (Iliana) Bennett and Mark Vasquez Jr.

Fulfilling the requirements of the Associate of Arts in Liberal Arts were Janelle Jackson, Debbie McSawby and Kelley Perkins.

Completing their Associate of Art in Native American Studies were Alicia Gonzalez, Brian Loney, Russell Menefee Jr. and Milldred Pelcher.

Tribal Chief Steven Pego offered words of encouragement and praise for these graduates while alluding to what can be accomplished through education; the reclamation of what it means to be a warrior among Native people.

These graduating students are now part of the legacy of not only the Saginaw Chippewa

Indian Tribe, but also the Tribal College Movement which annually provides more than 30,000 American Indian people, of all ages, the ability to pursue an education without needing to change who they are.

A message from SCTC President Carla Sineway

As president of the Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College, I am very proud of all of our students who have taken a leap of faith and have enrolled in classes at SCTC. You have made it through the school year and finally reached summer time, enjoy yourself!

It is also at this time of year that I am especially moved as I witness another class of graduates accomplish their goal. I am very proud of your success because I know it was not easy. On those days when the decision had to be made between family time or school work, gas money or a cup of coffee, study math or study English, stay home or go to class; I can say you have made the right decision. Now another choice is set before you, transfer to a four-year institution or go to work, stay at home or give to your community. I know you will make the right decision.

There are so many prospects that await each graduate. Graduation is not the end, rather the beginning of many great opportunities. I recall my many years of college and the times that I became discouraged because I didn't know where I would end up. I am glad I ended up at Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College because I am able to witness all of your accomplishments. You inspire me. Congratulations, graduates!

Marijuana trends highlight a June 12 community presentation at Ziibiwing

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK

Photojournalist

In a collaborative educational effort of the Youth LEAD department, Saginaw Chippewa Behavioral Health and Ziibiwing Center, a June 12 community presentation about marijuana current drug trends is scheduled from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Michael Stratton, an East Lansing-based psychotherapist and certified social worker, assists clients with marijuana addiction and cannabis "amotivational syndrome", will be presenting a PowerPoint presentation and sharing his personal experiences in recovery and as an educator.

Stratton is a federally-certified trainer and speaker in the field of substance abuse. He has also worked for Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration as a speaker and consultant.

"Laws and attitudes about marijuana are changing rapidly,

Stratton said. "This will have an impact on all of us in the near future. Even though the move to decriminalize and legalize cannabis will keep many marijuana users out of the legal system, it doesn't mean there won't be some that will have a problem."

Youth LEAD Diversion Manager Guadalupe Gonzalez is encouraged by the community attendance at their last two educational presentations from Gratiot County Community Mental Health and Lt. Mark Uribe of the Bay Area Narcotics Enforcement Team (BAYANET) and expects a capacity audience for Stratton.

"We know there are drugs affecting youth and families in the area and marijuana is the one drug that has always been around the reservation community," Gonzalez said. "Just because a lot of people think of marijuana as harmless, we have seen through the police and courts how new variations of the drug have been created that are highly addictive and harmful."

One example the Youth LEAD Diversion Team is concerned about is "dabs" or "black shadow." To put it in full context, one of Stratton's clients said, "I think of smoking a joint like a casual thing, like drinking a cup of tea. But when you do dabs, you know you're doing a drug. It's the heroin of marijuana."

Stratton will also talk about medical marijuana, "earwax", and other forms of THC and drugs that have been coming into the Central Michigan area.

"Marijuana is a trickster; it may start out enhancing your senses, but is likely to end up dulling your life experience," Stratton said. "It doesn't destroy your life, like some harder drugs do. For some people it just hits the 'pause' button. Research is showing about 9 percent of users will become addicted. There is also evidence that brain changes in regular marijuana users may lead to anxiety, depression and lower life satisfaction."

"Medical marijuana is also not a part of any treatment plans at the Nimkee Clinic and our policy does not allow it under any circumstances," Clinic Pharmacy Manager Andy Henning said.

According to Nimkee Policy 015 obtained by the Tribal Observer and approved by Tribal Health Board, "Medical Marijuana will not be recommended, certified, or prescribed by the Nimkee Medical Clinic or Behavioral Health providers. As a Tribal health clinic, under Indian Health Services, Nimkee Memorial Wellness Center and SCIT Behavioral Health falls under Federal law which overrides state law for Medical Marijuana."

Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Court Senior Judge Patrick Shannon mentions that possession of marijuana carries a potential of one year and or $5,000 fine or both.

"It should be noted that this community, through Tribal law, does not recognize a Medical Marijuana card so there is no free pass," Shannon said.

Tribal Court Prosecutor Graham Leach sees the damage marijuana is still causing families within the community.

"While marijuana may have some health benefits to a few people, the Tribal Code does not recognize marijuana use for medicinal purposes," Leach said. "The vast majority of marijuana users do so recreationally, not for health reasons. Marijuana use and abuse remains a significant problem in the community, and as Tribal prosecutor I will continue to uphold the law and prosecute marijuana cases."

There will be a community discussion panel moderated by the Youth LEAD Diversion Team after the presentation and the community is encouraged to bring any questions or concerns they may have about marijuana.

Soaring Eagle Salon's grand re-opening presents spacious, elegant remodel

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

It's the perfect spot to go to relax and receive a makeover to feel your best. The Soaring Eagle Resort Salon presented its grand re-opening on May 7.

With the many new renovations and updates, this salon is the place to be. The newly-revamped salon provides a spacious, relaxing and elegant space for pampering and indulgence.

"We originally had two hair stations, two manicure stations and all of our pedicures were done in our back treatment rooms," Spa Manager Molly Burhans said. "Now we've incorporated three pedicure chairs; they are also massage chairs and are wonderfully relaxing. We also have three manicure tables and four salon stations now."

Regular guests will immediately notice the renovations when walking into the salon, and the employees are exceptionally happy with the results as well.

"The space is just so much bigger, warmer, and much more relaxing and welcoming," Burhans said. "I think it is a great asset to our business."

Several Tribal Council members for the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe attended the grand re-opening for the ribbon cutting ceremony. Chief Steven Pego, Michele Stanley, Shelly Bailey, Sandy Sprague, Jennifer Wassegijig and Lindy Hunt, along with the Tribal Public Relations Department assisted with the ribbon cutting to mark the official salon re-launching.

The salon transformation required about one year of planning and labor.

"Our (SECR) Facilities department did an incredible job," Burhans said. "Everything in here is custom design; it is absolutely fantastic."

The salon staff temporarily revamped a hotel room and made it their salon during the renovations.

"We didn't want to lose any revenue or shut down any business," Burhans said. "That was really challenging but... all the employees have been great and worked well with each other in tight quarters. Now, we are finally out of that space and into this beautiful space."

Tribal Chief Steven Pego and Council Members Jennifer Wassegijig, Sandy Sprague, Shelly Bailey and Lindy Hunt assist Hotel Operations Director Bernard Sprague and Spa Manager Molly Burhans in the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

There are currently 27 employees total comprising pool attendants, cosmetologists, massage therapists and spa receptionists.

"Some of our staff members have been here going on 17 years," Burhans said.

Burhans welcomes guests and employees to visit the salon and request a tour at any time.

Their next task involves plans to recreate the back spa area.

Oak Ridge Boys and Diamond Rio bring their all-American country hits to SECR

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

It was back in the '40s Oak Ridge Boys started out as a gospel group. In the '70s, they shifted gears to become an American country music band.

In 1984, American country and Christian music band Diamond Rio formed in Nashville, Tenn.

On Saturday, April 26, both bands shared their love for music with the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort sold-out crowd.

Opening with their upbeat song "Unbelievable", Diamond Rio started the night off right. During "Imagine That", "Mirror, Mirror" and "Beautiful Mess", their smooth harmonies were showcased.

"We're glad to be sharing the stage with Oak Ridge Boys, they're our heroes for sure," bassist Dana Williams said. "For us, it's been 23 years now that we've been playing. We're gonna do some favorite Diamond Rio songs, so don't worry if we haven't got to your favorite yet, this is probably it."

"One More Day" proved to be a crowd favorite and Williams got the audience singing along.

"If you don't remember these songs, fake it," Williams said before they performed a medley of their '90s hits including "You're Gone", "In A Week or Two", "Mama Don't Forget to Pray For Me", "Walkin' Away", "Love A Little Stronger" and "It's All In Your Head".

Diamond Rio performed "God Is There" and "This Is My Life" off their latest gospel album, "The Reason" (2009).

"I Believe" received loud applause with a beautiful, instrumental intro and then a piano performance.

"If you ain't happy to be here tonight... well, bummer," Williams said causing audience laughter.

That morning, lead guitarist and banjo master Jimmy Olander, of Michigan, completed a 13.1-mile half marathon in Nashville, Tenn. before flying into Mount Pleasant, Mich. for the show.

Diamond Rio then performed bluegrass versions of rock 'n' roll songs including: "Layla", "Walk This Way", "Carry on Wayward Son" and "Born To Be Wild".

They then closed the show with crowd favorites "Meet in the Middle" and "How Your Love Makes Me Feel".

Duane Allen, Joe Bonsall, William Lee Golden and Richard Sterban, better known as the Oak Ridge Boys, began their show by shaking audience members' hands while singing "Everyday".

While known for country and gospel music, The Oak Ridge Boys had numerous crossover hits including "Bobbie Sue", "American Made" and the 33-year-old megahit "Elvira".

"Elvira" remains the group's best-known hit from their best-selling album, "Fancy Free".

The Oak Ridge Boys are no strangers to SECR.

"We feel at home here," Bonsall said. "The last time we were here, our bus broke down and the Soaring Eagle staff was wonderful and helped us out."

Diamond Rio has achieved 12 gold, three platinum, one double-platinum album and numerous national Number One singles and more than 30 Top Ten hits.

Hits such as "Come On In", "I Guess It Never Hurts to Hurt Sometimes", "Love Song", "Cryin' Again" and "Ya'll Come Back Saloon" showcased their flawless, four-part harmonies.

Oak Ridge Boys performed "Leaving Louisiana in the Broad Daylight", a song written by country musician Rodney Crowell and Donovan Cowart. The song was originally performed by Emmylou Harris in 1978. The following year, Oak Ridge Boys released the song and it became their second number-one country single.

The Boys also sang "Lucky Moon" (1991), "(I'm Settin') Fancy Free" (1981) and "Dream On" from 1979.

Oak Ridge Boys and Diamond Rio brought on a night full of classic American country hits to the sold-out SECR crowd. For more information on upcoming shows at the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort, "Like" their Facebook page or add their Twitter handle SoaringEagle777.

Singer-songwriter Vince Gill treats SECR guests to timeless country music

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

Fan favorites, guitar solos, special guests and heartfelt country music appeared to be the theme during Vince Gill's show at the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort on Saturday, May 10.

Gill, a Country Music Hall of Famer, achieved success as frontman to country rock band Pure Prairie League in the '70s, and kicked off his solo career in 1983.

Opening the show with his upbeat number one hit "One More Last Chance", the crowd was ready for a night of Gill's gifted multi-instrumental skills.

Gill performed "Tryin' To Get Over You", "Pocket Full of Gold", "Never Alone", "When I Call Your Name" and a song about his Oklahoma hometown "The Old Lucky Diamond Motel".

"I had my first record in 1974 and I haven't looked back since," Gill said triggering applause.

Before playing "Look At Us", he had a few words: "This is a love song, the best one I ever came up with. People fall in love and stay together for ever and ever and ever. Amen."

Rock and roll legend Bob Seger stunned the crowd and joined Gill for the encore, playing his classic hit "Old Time Rock and Roll".

He shared one of his biggest thrills is writing a great song that one of his favorite artists records. Gill performed "Real Mean Bottle" that he wrote and rock and roll singer-songwriter Bob Seger recorded.

This next song is the first hit I ever had; I didn't think I'd ever have one, Gill said about Grammy award-winning "When I Call Your Name".

"Foolin' Around" and Merle Haggard's "Tonight the Bottle Let Me Down" were performed.

"Fifty years ago, this song came out when I was a 7-year-old boy and I don't think there's a better song," Gill said of Buck Owens' "Together Again".

This year, Gill received the greatest Christmas present he could ask for when he found out he was going to be a first-time grandpa. His expectant daughter, Jenny Gill, joined him for a few songs with her powerful vocals on "Daddy's Out Shopping For Guns", "Lean on Love" and "Whiskey Words".

Gill received standing ovations for "The Letter", "What the Cowgirls Do" and number one U.S. Billboard Hot Country Single "Don't Let Our Love Start Slippin' Away".

The tempo slowed down with "I Still Believe In You", "Pretty Little Adriana" and the gospel song he performed at George Jones' funeral "Go Rest High On That Mountain".

The encore included "Whenever You Come Around", with Jenny Gill returning to the stage.

With Gill's talent alone, it was a night to remember, but the audience was in for an astounding surprise when Gill's friend and fellow musician, Bob Seger joined for the very last song.

Seger entered the stage and the audience went crazy. Gill's band began the first few recognizable notes of "Old Time Rock and Roll" and the entire audience was on their feet dancing and clapping along.

The audience was left abuzz after grasping the fact that history was made on the SECR stage that night with two iconic performers closing the show together.

RN, BSN, MA
Nimkee Medical Clinic Director

Nimkee continues to move forward with the Indian Health Service, Improving Patient Care (IPC5) Initiative. This month, we have begun to restructure our phone system to make it easier for our patients to reach the department and/or the staff member they need to reach.

When you call the Nimkee Memorial Wellness Center primary switch board number 989-775-4600, please listen closely to the prompts, as they have changed. The prompts will direct you to the department you need to reach.

For example, to reach the Nimkee Clinic and your primary care provider, or PCP, you will press #1. Once you do this, your call will be directed to the Medical Clinic.

To contact your PCP's nurse, or to schedule an appointment with your PCP, you will be asked to press #1 for Dr. Eisenmann, #2 for Joan LaPointe-Kelto, PA, #3 for Dr. Kissoondial, and #4 for Dr. Striebel. If you need to reach the medical receptionist or do not know who your PCP is, please press #5, all other calls please press #6. If your call is an emergency, please hang up and call 911.

You may also call your PCP's nurse directly at the phone numbers listed. Voicemail has been added to all of our nurses' lines so that if you call, and your nurse is on the phone or with another patient, you may leave a message. We ask you leave your name, your return phone number and a brief statement of what you are calling about. Your nurse or health care team member will call you back as soon as possible.

If you do not know who your PCP is, please contact the receptionist and she will check your medical record to see who you are assigned to. Remember if at any time you wish to change your PCP, please let the staff know and we will make the change.

The staff of Nimkee Memorial Wellness Center wants you to have an excellent health care experience at Nimkee and to receive the best quality of care. We are looking for community members to be involved in the IPC5 initiative. If you are interested in assisting our staff with this initiative, or if you have any questions or concerns regarding the Nimkee Medical Clinic, please feel free to contact Margaret at 989-775-4618. Remember... "your good health is a gift of respect to you and to those you love."

Please watch the Tribal Observer and the Tribal website for changes as we continue our journey with the Indian Health Services, Improving Patient Care Initiative.

Learn fresh ideas for freezing, pickling, canning, and drying at upcoming workshop

JUDY DAVIS

Nimkee Public Health

The upcoming Public Health 4x4 Grant Traditional Nutrition Cooking Workshop will be held at the Seventh Generation Ceremonial Building on Tuesday, June 17, 2014, from 4-7 p.m.

Guest instructor Jennifer Casey, professional chef and registered dietitian, will conduct the workshop. Jennifer enjoys and cooks with traditional foods, of all cultures, for good health.

Since 2007, Jennifer has worked with the Gerald L. Ignace Indian Health Center, Inc., or GLIHC, Milwaukee's urban Indian Health Organization, which serves enrolled members of tribes from across the Bemidji area.

At GLIHC, Jennifer runs the Diabetes and Community Health programs and has worked with local Elders to create a traditional food recipe and storybook.

Jennifer started a Native Wellness Garden program, and has taught hundreds of cooking classes to diverse groups. In her spare time, she gardens, travels, cooks with her family, and volunteers with the global grassroots organization, Slow Food.

To register for the workshop, call Lee Ann at 989-775-4780 or Judy at 989-775-4629 by June 13.

Walking: A step in the right direction!

JUDY DAVIS

Nimkee Public Health

As we continue our walking program this summer, keep safety in mind as you plan when and where you walk.

- If you walk at dawn, dusk or night, wear a reflective vest or brightly colored clothing.
- Walk in a group when possible and carry some identification with you, along with a way to contact someone if you need help.
- Notify family and friends of your group's walking time and route.
- Do not wear any jewelry or headphones.
- Always be aware of your surroundings while walking.

Stretch it out! Stretch gently after you warm up your muscles and again after you cool down. Do not bounce or hold your breath when you stretch. Perform slow movements and stretch only as far as you feel comfortable.

Try the following stretches:

Side Reach: Reach one arm over your head and to the side. Keep your hips steady and your shoulders straight to the side. Hold for 10 seconds and repeat on the other side.

Wall Push: Lean your hands on a wall and place your feet three to four feet away from the wall. Bend one knee and point it toward the wall.

Keep your back leg straight with your foot flat and your toes pointed straight ahead. Hold for 10 seconds and repeat with the other leg.

More warm-up tips will be provided next month. Remember, we still have free walking at Morey Courts, along with the Tribal Gym and Nimkee Fitness Center. If you have not done so already, sign up for the walking challenge through Blue Cross at www.walkingworks.com.

The winning Tribe will receive their award at the Family Olympics in July. Contact Robyn at 989-775-4649 or Judy at 989-775-4629 for more information.

The 23rd annual Human Race to take place on June 11

JADEN HARMAN
Fitness Coordinator

The 23rd annual Human Race recognizes the resilience of our Native American people, culture and spirituality by promoting active lifestyles and positive, healthy choices.

The Human Race is Wednesday, June 11 and consists of two courses; a one-mile fun run/walk and a 5K run.

Both courses start and end at the Seventh Generation's Elijah Elk Cultural Center.

Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. The race starts at 6:30 p.m.

Following the race, there will be an awards presentation and a special full-course dinner served to all participants and family members.

The awards are hand-crafted cedar eagle feathers made by Seventh Generation staff.

The fee is $15 if paid for by June 6 and $20 after June 6. Family rate is $40 for families of three or more.

T-shirts will be given to the first 175 registrants. Registration forms are available at the Nimkee Fitness Center.

This event is co-sponsored by the Seventh Generation Program, the Nimkee Memorial Fitness Center and the Mount Pleasant Striders Club. For more information, please call Jaden Harman at 989-775-4694.

Free Cooking Class

Nimkee Public Health, MSU Extension and Meijer Corporation are partnering to offer a FREE "Dining with Diabetes" workshop to Tribal and community members.

"Dining with Diabetes" is not just for diabetics but for anyone who wants to learn more about healthy living. "Dining with Diabetes" is also helpful for those at risk of Pre-Diabetes. You will learn more about diabetes, swap ideas, watch cooking demonstrations and sample food. You will also learn about Meijer's NuVal ranking system and power foods!

- Series includes: Five two-hour workshops
- Dates: June 3, 10, 17 and 24, with a follow up class on Aug. 26
- Time: 1 p.m. - 3 p.m.
- All workshops are held at Nimkee Public Health education kitchen

Please note: We will take the first 25 people. RSVP is required.

We invite you to join the 2014 Tribe to Tribe Blues Community Challenge

ROBYN GRINZINGER

Health Educator and SCIT Challenge Team Coordinator

The Tribe to Tribe Challenge is back! Any exercise counts; at home, at the fitness center, walking around the building, basketball, etc.

We know that physical fitness is important, and we know we should get some exercise every day, so why not make it a competition?

Nimkee Public Health Services, which includes Nimkee Fitness and Nimkee Public Health, invites Tribal members and employees to join a physical fitness activity competition.

Our goal is to see which Tribe can log the most activity from now until July 18. The Tribe with the most activity will be recognized at the Michigan Indian Family Olympics in Mount Pleasant, Mich. in July.

1. Register on www.walking-works.com
2. Register under Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe team (we need 20 or more registered to be eligible to be part of the competition).
3. Who: All SCIT members and employees.
4. Track specific physical activity (self-reporting) – the web site will walk you through the steps as to how/what to track (example: you walked for 30 minutes = two miles).

5. Keep track until July 18.
6. You will be amazed how much exercise you are doing when you are tracking. It is fun!

Thank you to Blue Cross Blue Shield as the coordinators of this program. Winning tribes are eligible for wellness grants to continue to provide and encourage physical fitness for our community.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Robyn, SCIT team coordinator, at 989-775-4649.

Stopping junk mail and telemarketing phone calls

JULIE PEGO

Case Manager

Do you know there is a way to opt-out of getting all that junk mail on pre-approved credit cards, insurance advertisements, etc? There are two ways to do so. You can opt-out for five years or opt-out permanently.

To opt-out for five years, call toll free 1-888-567-8688 or visit www.optoutprescreen.com.

To opt-out permanently, go online to begin the process and then you will be sent the Permanent Opt-Out Election form, which will need to be signed and sent back.

When you call or visit the website, you will be asked for personal information including your home telephone number, name, Social Security number and date of birth. The information you provide is confidential and will only be used to process your opt-out request.

If you would rather send in your request by mail, you can write to each of the following:

Experian, Opt-Out, PO Box 919, Allen, TX 75013

TransUnion, Name Removal Option, PO Box 505, Woodlyn, PA, 19094

Equifax, Inc., Options, PO Box 740123, Atlanta, GA, 30374

Innovis Consumer Assistance, PO Box 495, Pittsburgh, PA, 15230.

To stop unsolicited telemarketing calls, register at the National Do Not Call Registry. You can register your home phone number and your cell phone number. Go to www.donotcall.gov or call 1-888-382-1222 to register. You will get fewer calls within 31 days.

Register to opt-out of commercial e-mail solicitations for six years at www.dmchoice.org.

“Rez Rollers” strike again at Youth LEAD third annual bowling tournament

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK

Photojournalist

Once more, Chippewa Lanes of Mount Pleasant, Mich. provided a striking good time for the 82 participants who competed in the Youth LEAD sponsored third annual “Rez Rollers” Bowling Tournament on Saturday, April 12.

Youth LEAD Organized Sports Specialist Lucas Sprague coordinated a seamless afternoon of competitive bowling that featured three youth divisions along with a spirited adult division of seasoned league class participants.

“It was a great time to see so many people come out on a Saturday afternoon with their families cheering them on,” Sprague said. “I would like to say a special miigwetch to the Youth Council who sponsored the three youth divisions.”

The youth division consisted of boys and girls aged 10 and younger, 11 to 13 year olds and 14 to 17-year-old bowlers. The 10 and younger results saw Whisper Pelcher take third place with Thomas Pelcher finishing second and Andre Leauxaux taking home the first place trophy.

In the 11 to 13 year old competition, Jasmyne Jackson took third place honors with Brooklyn Jackson finishing second and Jessie M. winning top in the division.

In the 14 to 17 year old division, Eddie Jackson rolled into third place with Misheeka Floyd garnering a second place finish. Tribal youth Basil Naganashe threw some key strikes when needed to capture the first place hardware.

Youth LEAD Activities Manager Ronnie Ekdahl gave his high fives to the youth.

“We appreciate the Tribal youth coming out and getting their competitive edge going because bowling is similar to so many sports where the only way you get better is making the commitment to practice,” Ekdahl said. “There are so many indoor and outdoor activities available for aspiring athletes through our Youth LEAD program, and if they are ready to put in the time and effort, I will be more than happy to work with them and encourage them.”

In the highly competitive adult division stacked with veteran league bowlers, the third place honors went to Team Mandoka Trix (George Mandoka, Darcy Mandoka, Tim Mandoka and Misty Pelcher). The second place trophy went to the Grand Traverse Band bowlers who drove all the way from Peshawbetown to compete. The Odawa’s from Team Northern consisted of David, Sandy and Kristopher Anderson and fellow teammate Delia Bowen.

The champions of the third annual “Rez Rollers” Bowling Tournament were Team Late Neff featuring the winning team of James Neff, Luke Sprague, Kerry Byberg and Val Raphael.

Chippewa Lanes Owner Carl Malish and employee Dan Bragg were on hand to assist in the numerous side contests of call shots, door prizes and making sure the tournament provided a fun time for all ages.

“We see so many of the Tribal Members and Tribal employees on league nights and open bowling...

we feel like we are a part of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe,” Malish said. “It is an honor to work with the Tribe on hosting these tournaments and we know you have bowlers out there who are capable of rolling 300 games.”

Other trophy honors given by Malish, included the High Handicap series won by Leon Quintero with an 885 score and the best game of the tourney went to Luke Sprague with a perfectly striking effort of 300!

The successful Youth LEAD event concluded with a family favorite... a pizza party that made everyone winners!

Sky lanterns released to represent sexual assault victims during “Spark a Fire”

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

Spark a discussion... spark a movement... spark a fire. This was the theme during the April 29 Sexual Assault Awareness Month event at Andahwod Senior Care Center.

The Behavioral Health Sexual Assault Response Team and Nami Migizi Nangwiihgan, along with Andahwod staff showed Vanguard’s documentary “Rape on the Reservation”.

The film visits the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota where sexual assault cases have escalated to countless murders of Native American women, including 19-year-old Marquita, whose mother was interviewed. Forty percent of sexual assault cases in the United States occur within the state of South Dakota.

“Although the documentary ‘Rape on the Reservation’ is not based on the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe, it offers insight into the increasing number of incidents of sexual assault occurring in Tribal communities,” Domestic Violence Coordinator Amanda Dolan said.

On the Rosebud Reservation, resources are limited and Tribal Police cover an immense 200-mile range.

“...Rosebud Reservation lacks the necessary community resources to respond effectively to sexual assault,” Brooke Huber, Sexual Assault Response Team coordinator said. “Luckily, (SCIT) has a vast number of services to offer to victims, and our presence of caring law enforcement is much greater.”

National statistics show that one in three Native American women and one in 10 Native men will be sexually assaulted during their lifetime.

With 582 adult women and 548 adult men residing in SCIT’s

The lanterns represented the statistics showing one in three Native American women and one in 10 Native men will be sexually assaulted during their lifetime.

District One, the statistics suggest 194 women and 55 men in the community have been victims of sexual assault.

To represent the 249 sexual assault victims within District One, Tribal members and employees joined to spark a fire and release a sky lantern in honor of each victim.

Anishinabe Ogitchedaw Veterans Warriors brought two Eagle Staffs and offered a smudging, and the Wabanaisee Snow Bird Singers sang as the lanterns took off high in the sky and sparked a fire.

“Often, much of the important work happens after an assault occurs,” Huber said. “We chose the event title ‘Spark a Discussion, Spark a Movement, Spark a Fire’ because it is time to talk about the prevalence of sexual assault in our community. Victims have suffered in silence long enough.”

Victims have 24/7 access to free and confidential services provided by NMN and the SART Team. Tribal Police, Behavioral Health, Victims of Crime and Nimkee Public Health are also available for victims.

The SART Team was recently granted by the U.S. Department of Justice to Behavioral Health’s CTAS Violence Against Women Tribal Governments Program project.

“Our multidisciplinary SART Team aims to ensure victims receive prompt and comprehensive victim centered services by collaborating efforts of medical personnel, advocates, law enforcement, educators and mental health professionals,” Huber said.

Sexual assault counseling services are available through both NMN and Behavioral Health. NMN also offers shelter, transportation and a support group.

“It’s important for all of us as helping professionals to remember that our job is to advocate and help the victim through this traumatic time, and not to judge them or force them to do things they may not feel comfortable with at that time (i.e. immediately file a police report),” SART Counselor Shelby McCliggott said.

One-by-one, community members came together to light off the 249 sky lanterns representing each victim.

“We are so encouraged and motivated to continue our efforts to help those affected by domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking,” Dolan said. “The community’s support throughout Sexual Assault Awareness Month was a testament to the strength and commitment there is to end sexual assault and domestic violence.”

Native American women are raped at rates two times higher than any other race. If you or someone you love has been sexually assaulted, help is available. Call NMN at 989-775-4400 or the National Sexual Assault Hotline at 1-800-656-4673.

The Wabanaisee (Snowbird) Singers performed as they watched the sky lanterns fly high in the sky.

Many Behavioral Health Sexual Assault Response Team, Nami Migizi Nangwiihgan and Andahwod employees gathered for the cause.

The Clothesline Project represents violence against women. Each shirt was decorated, either by a survivor or someone who cares about her, to represent her experience.

Anishinabe Ogitchedaw Veterans Warriors had the honor to light the first sky lantern.
