Operations at Waabooz Run Golf Course end

Company Board of Directors and Tribal Council have decided to end the operation of Waabooz Run Golf Course. After carefully considering all options, it was agreed that shuttering Waabooz Run would improve the financial performance of Migizi EDC.

As with most golf courses, Waabooz Run has experienced a decline in play for several years as the golf industry has gone through a substantial contraction. Waabooz Run was hard hit during the 2020 pandemic, being unable to operate until mid-summer.

While the course could not allow play, the maintenance and upkeep costs remained, which created an unsustainable situation. Golf operations are costly due to significant labor and material requirements to operate the course.

This decision opens the door to several positive options, including the further development of the land currently occupied by Waabooz. At the forefront of those opportunities is the chance to add new features to Soaring Eagle Waterpark and Hotel. Several proposals have been submitted to the Migizi Board for review, including an outdoor swimming pool, an expansion of Soaring Eagle Hideaway Landing RV Park, and a walking trails system that would benefit both guests and community members.

Developments such as these were not possible while the golf course remained in operation. To improve the position of Tribal-owned businesses, it was a necessary action and one that the CEO, the Migizi Board, and Tribal Council feel is the best path forward. Those involved feel optimism toward the land and property possibilities, which represent high value to the Tribe.

Sub-Chief

“I’d just like to say a few remarks to the District III Tribal Members. Boszhu and good morning to all District III Tribal Members.

2020 was a difficult year for everyone and going into this year, the pandemic is far from over. Everyone is touched by the new norms it has brought on, no matter what district you are in. When you talk to business owners or government administrators, they will tell you they are being slammed by the pandemic. But I can tell you the overall Tribal program, priorities and planning never missed a mark. We learned lessons of streamlining, consolidations and using new methods in modern technology, everyday guys like the Chief and I. We learned evolving policy, especially when trying to follow the CDC guidelines. Also, we learned to keep our gaming enterprises open and not be a super spreader during the pandemic like everyone thought it would.

As we are moving through the pandemic, I learned previous Tribal Councils had us prepared for the future. Some good thoughts by previous Tribal Councils helped us maintain our enterprises and government services.

As you’ll hear in the State of the Tribe Address, we will press on continuing tradition using vision, forethought and lessons learned to help secure the future of all Tribal Members in all the districts. May God bless us all. Thank you.”

Carmen Otto
District I representative

“Good morning, my name is Carmen Otto and I am a District I representative Tribal Council member.

I just want to say my heart goes out to the community during this time. I, and the rest of Council, definitely have you and the community in our thoughts and prayers every day as we try to get through this.

Theresa Jackson
District 1 representative

“Good morning, I am Theresa Peters Jackson, District I Tribal Council member. I wish all of you love and blessings and a happy new year.”

Gayle Ruhl
District I representative

“Bocshoo, Wahanungkwe na’dishnikas Mishke d’odem Mount Pleasant ndo njibaa. You may know me as Gayle Ruhl, I am a District I Tribal Council representative. I just want to say my heart goes out to the community during this time. I, and the rest of Council, definitely have you and the community in our thoughts and prayers every day as we try to get through this.

Tribal Council Regular Session Meetings

The Regular Tribal Council Sessions now start at 6 p.m. on the first Tuesday of each month in the Council Chambers in the Black Elk Government Complex, in accordance with the Tribal Constitution. Meetings are open to Tribal Members.

Administration will announce ahead of time if meeting date or time changes for possible weather or emergencies. However, it is rare the times change.

Administration’s administrative assistant III compiles and prepares the agenda. Approximately two weeks prior to the meeting, an email is sent to Tribal Operations employees to remind them of the meeting and request any submissions for the agenda.

Any SCIT Tribal Member or other individual/department must submit a written request if they wish to be placed on the Regular Council Session agenda. Anyone wanting to be added can call (989) 775-4003.

Tribal Education Director Melissa Isaac is one of 29 to be appointed by Michigan Gov. Gretchen Whitmer to the Student Recovery Advisory Council.

The governor has appointed individuals reflecting diverse geographic and demographic composition of this state and representing parents, students, school leaders, educators, individuals with expertise in public health, pediatrics, mental health, and community members. The Advisory Council will also include four participating members of the Michigan Legislature: Senators Wayne Schmidt and Dawn Peters and Representatives Lori Stone and Brad Paquette.

The Council will serve until Dec. 31, 2021.

“Our ancestors suffered and made heartbreakings sacrifices for their descendants to be educated. We are those descendants. They thought about us before we existed,” Isaac said. “It is an incredible act of love to ensure your ancestors rights and the communities for a good life. I feel a sense of responsibility to carry on for them, for us and for the ones coming after us. Anishinaabe bimadiziwin is our inherent right. Our ancestors and our youth are the ones guiding this. I am privileged and grateful for this opportunity.”

The funds raised during this campaign will be used to fund general operations and educational programming at Art Reach of Mid Michigan.

“While we were brainstorming ideas to raise money to mitigate the budget shortfall from 2020, Amy suggested a haircut fundraising,” said Jeffrey Silvernail, Art Reach marketing coordinator. “We thought it would be a really fun and unique way to raise money, especially in light of our two great organizations.”

I do want to reiterate my gratitude. I am thankful to be here with you all, and I am grateful for the opportunity to speak to you today. We are all in this together, and I am confident that we will come out stronger on the other side.

Martha Wemigwans
Sergeant-at-Arms

"Good morning Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribal Members. I am Martha Wemigwans, your Tribal Council Sergeant-at-Arms. I would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you for giving me this chance to serve you all. Times have been very trying and thank you again for being very patient and understanding. I hope everyone is staying safe and healthy during these difficult times.

My thoughts and prayers are with the community. Have a great day."

Maia Spotted Tail
Treasurer

"Mino Giizhew friends and relatives! Maia Spotted Tail N’dzhnkaaz, Maw-e-dodem, Saginaw Chippewa Aki n’donjibaa. I come to you today with a good heart and good intentions to deliver and an update on your financial profile.

Thank you for your support and prayers. God bless."

Alice Jo Ricketts
Chairman

"Good morning again, this is Alice Jo Rickett, Tribal Chairman. In the last year, my faith has been challenged. But God showed up. He really did. The numbers don’t lie and we thank each and every one of you for praying for not only your leaders, but your whole community. God bless."

Ronald F. Edkahl
District I representative

"Mino Giizhew wagosh nindishinkaas Makwa Dodem. Saginaw Chippewa ndonjibaa. Good morning. I’m Ronald Ekdahl District I representative. I wanted to take the time today to speak to you, the Membership. We don’t often have the opportunity as leaders to address the Members as a whole and I think it is important to speak to you at this time. A few topics I wanted to express my opinions on are the pandemic and response to the Tribe, its impacts and the opportunities moving forward. Finally, some updates around the Cannabis Committee and the work we are doing. The pandemic brought about unprecedented challenges to the Tribe and to the entire world. The unique challenges we faced as a Tribe were focused on the health and wellbeing of our citizens and the operation of our hospitality business. The closure of the casinos is something I never thought would happen, but it did. It left us in a financial hole as far as the Tribe’s ability to generate revenue.

Through the strategic leadership of our CEO Mike Bean and thoughtful consideration from the Tribal Council, we have been able to run our casino businesses. The operation of the casinos is vital for our way of life. It pays for the government programs our health care and it also contributes to 117 million per capita annually to all of you Tribal Members. Many times I have had to make difficult decisions, but since you are offered the vaccine, we must do our part to protect it. This decision has been met with mixed emotions. But I want to thank you all for doing our very best to keep the safety of our employees and patrons a top priority. To this point, the plans and safety measures have worked. While nothing is perfect, we can continue to improve and get through this together. The Cannabis Committee was formed in the early months of the administration. I am a representative serving on the committee. We have been working to find opportunities for cannabis within our community. A major step towards this would be to develop an ordinance that governs how cannabis will be regulated on the Reservation. I am happy to say that work has begun on the drafting of that ordinance. Also through collaboration with Migizi, the Cannabis Committee is looking at possible business ventures for the Tribe. The approval of an ordinance vital to these efforts and I look forward to working towards its completion.

In closing, I would say that it has been a very tough year. As we host this meeting virtually, I can say that it is not the same as gathering with all of our Members. I know this is the daily interactions with people; just being able to sit down and talk. I am thinking of you and I hope that this message brings you some joy. Please continue to reach out with questions or concerns. Migizi.

"Good morning, Ron Nelson, your District III Sagingan Community representative. I wanted to thank all of you, District I Members for your support and commitment to our community. Together we have been able to navigate the economic reactivation of the Tribe. Our economy is one of the best in the country.

As a Tribe, we are stronger together to safeguard your future.

To our ancestors that made the sacrifices in order for us to become what we are today, we honor you and say Chi-Megwetch!"

Seventh Generation’s ice skating rink provides community with winter activity

NATALIE SHATTUCK
Editor

When one Tribal department has an idea, it does not take long for other departments to begin assisting in any way they can to help make the dream a reality.

When Deputy Chief Jesse T. Jackson, cultural representative for Seventh Generation, had the idea to put in an ice skating rink on the program’s property, it became reality with the support of funds from the Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College’s Extension Program, and came to life with assistance from the Tribal Fire Department filling in the rink.

Now, the Bi Zhoosh Kwadwek (skating place) is available for Tribal Members and their families from dawn to dusk.

Kwadwek (skating place) is located in the rink.玩家 must have brought their own equipment and social distancing protocols also must be observed while on and near the rink.

The ice skating rink is closed nightly for maintenance and Seventh Generation requests volunteers for shoveling after snowfalls.

Community members are often spotted on the ice skating rink. How often? According to Tonya Jackson, administrative assistant II for Seventh Generation, “it depends on the day and/or weather, but there are a few youth that utilize it often.”

Tonya Jackson said the busiest times on the rink tend to be just before dark, and lights are on before dark to keep the community and rink safe.

Before anyone skates on the rink, they must sign a waiver, which is available in the shed next to the rink.

“Seventh Generation and its staff are not liable for injuries obtained; it’s a skate at your own risk,” Tonya Jackson said.

“Bi Zhoosh Kwadwek (skating place) is an ice rink funded by the SCTC Extension Program and put in an ice skating rink on the program’s property, it was one to answer the call and donated $500 to help with the purchasing of skates.”

Aambe bi zhooskwadwed! (Come skate!) A hockey game night was held on the rink on Saturday, Feb. 20 from 8 to 10 p.m. for community members.

Spectators were welcomed to watch the players.

Chili, frybread and hot cocoa were available during the occasion and heating stations were set up for spectators.

Players must have brought their own equipment and social distancing was required.

“We are fortunate to have this space for our youth and community to use, especially since it is an outdoor activity during a pandemic,” Tonya Jackson said.

Shortly after the rink opened, Seventh Generation put out a call for any used or no longer needed ice skates to donate to the program. Migizi Economic Development Co. was one to answer the call and donated $500 to help with the purchasing of skates.

“The rink was designed to provide community with winter activity and for Seventh Generation, “it was a huge thing and the departments that assisted with every-thing and the departments that also helped make this a successful event,” Jackson said.

Seventh Generation hosts drive-thru Baby Celebration for babies born in 2020

NATALIE SHATTUCK
Editor

Mnajoaadag daga binoojihinsininanik (Let’s celebrate our babies). This season’s Baby Celebration was a drive-through event held on Jan. 25 for Tribal Members, descendants and their families from dawn to dusk.

“Seventh Generation Elijah Elk Cultural Center hosted the Jan. 25 event for Tribal Members, descendants and their babies born in 2020.”

“We had 38 babies drive through out of 57 that were reported,” said Tonya Jackson, administrative assistant II for Seventh Generation.

The babies, age 0-12 months, must have been present in the vehicle between the 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. timeslot to receive a tote with gifts that included: a baby blanket made by Sandy Smith; a baby Pendleton donated by Zibiwiwin; art project for baby and family; miscellaneous giveaway items; baby food; Anishinaabemowin for baby from the Anishinaabe Language Revitalization Department; bookmark and JoNahmiih; children’s book; and a bowl of soup; fry bread and blanket dog.

“Babies, parents and grandparents who were present at the drive-thru event were eligible for raffle drawings.”

Winners from the drawings were the following:

- Baby swing: Sampy
- High chair: Ashley Garleer
- Wagon: Ashley Garleer
- High chair: Mira Shomin-Jackson
- Stroller: Phoenix Pelcher
- Bassinet: Remi Jule Baybay Samp
- Baby/toddler chair: Angelica Samp
- Mom gift card: Ashley Asquian
- Grandma gift card: Ashley Garleer
- Dad gift card: David Bennett
- Grandpa gift card: Mitch Himmon

“Raffle prizes were donated and/or purchased from different departments,” Jackson said. “The Public Relations department provided the mom, dad, grandma, and grandpa gift cards; Seventh Generation provided larger ticket items; ACFS (Anishinaabeg Child and Family Services) purchased large ticket items; N’keem’s Healthy Start Program purchased the totes; ALRD, Prevention and Tribal Libraries all (provided) info; Zibiwiwin donated Pendletons; Sandy Smith also had handmade blankets; and N’keem Clinic included COVID-19 information.”

“A huge chi-miigwetch to those that assisted with everything and the departments that also helped make this a successful event,” Jackson said.

Book review: “Firekeeper’s Daughter” by Angeline Boulley

ELLIE MITCHELL
Saginaw Ohio’we, Eagle Clan

Daunis is a shiniikiniw {young Anishinaabe woman} soon to go off to the University of Michigan, but plans to be pre-med. Unfortunately, a family emergency forces her to change her plans and she decides to stay in her hometown of Sault Ste Marie for her freshman year. Daunis witnesses a crime and agrees to assist the FBI’s investigation.

Indigenous readers will find familiar themes in the text, racial tension, blood quantum and competing advice and expectations of different relatives.

“Firekeeper’s Daughter.” Daunis struggles between competing advice and expectations of different relatives. Racism, blood quantum, and assimilation are topics that impact day-to-day life.

The infiltration of drugs in the community, untimely death, and an uncaring criminal justice system are major plot points. But there are the positives. Daunis lives in a close-knit community, surrounded by friends and relatives.

The novel opens with the protagonist visiting her grandmother. Later that day, Daunis babysits little cousins whose mother, an overworked tribal employee, needs to rush back to work.

Language revitalization is an enduring theme, and the text is interspersed with Anishinaabemowin.

“Firekeeper’s Daughter” is the debut novel of Angeline Boulley, a member of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians. This book will be a journey in a recognizable world for Anishinabe readers; while there is darkness and tragedy, community and Anishinaabe culture and identity provide their usual support and guidance.

For some long, young adult fiction has been noticeably bereft of Indigenous representation. A novel by an Anishinaabe author is Anishinaabe as a heart-lifting in this chaotic world.

Not only is the work itself is trail-blazing, so is the author. The backing of a major publisher and media hype around her book offer new possibilities for other Indigenous writers and readers.

“Firekeeper’s Daughter” by Angeline Boulley will be available March 16 2021, at booksellers and at the Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Library.

Meet the Artist: “Boontak! (Stop It!): Stolen Daughters of Turtle Island” exhibit

(Editor’s note: Marcella Hadden is the photographer for the portraits featured in the exhibition “Boontak! (Stop It!): Stolen Daughters of Turtle Island.” This exhibit is featured in the Ziibiwing Center to raise awareness for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls [MMIWG]. Hadden answers questions provided by the Tribal Observer below.)

Artist: Marcella Hadden

Art: Photography

Tribe: Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe

Currently resides: Mount Pleasant, Mich.

What inspired you to photograph these portraits and relate it to Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls?

During the winter when it is slow, I will do something new and I did a low light session with my granddaughter. We used a red blanket for a splash of color that really lit up in the dark. While editing them, she said it reminded her of MMIW theme of the recent round dance. I put her photo up on Facebook and let everyone know that if they wanted one to raise awareness for MMIWG that I would be more than happy to create one for them. (No charge, of course.) The response was overwhelming and I had to set several days aside and schedule people to come in for their portrait. Ziibiwing was nice enough to donate a space in which to do it and offered assistance with donating paint for the faces. It was during that time, that the opportunity arose to create the exhibit for it.

Is there a personal story behind your outreach for MMIWG awareness?

I really believe I did not choose it, but that the cause chose me. It’s evident as to how everything came together for it.

Why did you feel it was important to capture photos that helps raise awareness for MMIWG?

Nobody is going to fight for Native people but Native people. This is our story and it’s best if we tell it. The MMIWG epidemic has a harsh truth to it that is better to be exposed than to be swept under the rug as it has been.

What advice do you have to other Native women regarding MMIWG?

Learn to protect yourself. Take a self-defense class. Trust your gut instinct. Look out for others, especially the vulnerable ones.

Have you made any changes in your own life to help prevent MMIWG?

Yes, I realize how cruel and evil the world can really be. It’s a double edge sword because the older you become, the more wisdom you have and you can share that wisdom, but you can’t live anyone else’s life. People will do and live their life as they see fit. I’ve learned to leave a lot of my fears and worries up to the Creator and trust that we are exactly where we should be and that others will be protected.

What is your reaction that MMIWG awareness is becoming more known, for example, by Congress?

Excited and thankful. Even to have the exhibit here on our Reservation for a short while can make women think differently and open eyes to anyone who doesn’t know about the neglect, poor protection and inaccurate reporting on Native women.

Congresswoman Deb Haaland is photographed by Marcella Hadden as part of the Boontak! exhibit to raise awareness for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls.

Sentimental sayings in Anishinabemowin

ISABELLE OSAWAMICK
Anishinabe Outreach Specialist

Animate the living. It is the movement of objects or living beings. Animate is movement. In Anishinabemowin, the “he” and “she” are categorized into the animine/living. The words he and she belong to the animal/living. They are not separated in Anishinabemowin “her” and “him” are of the same category.

For most Animate words, the _-nk ending indicates plural. In Anishinabemowin, the letter g is an abbreviation for “gini” which is you.

Tribal Council Leaders, Global Indigenous Council, and Great Plains Tribal Chairmen’s Association announced their strong endorsement for Interior Secretary-nominee Deb Haaland, saying swift confirmation of Rep. Haaland (D-NM) as secretary of the Interior.

Few will be aware of this, but one of the first things Rep. Haaland did after being elected to the US Congress – even before taking office – was to publicly support our national tribal nations in states as geographically disparate as Louisiana, Arizona, and Alaska. In short, a large swath of Indian Country and the citizenry arguably most invested in and impacted by the policies adopted by the Department of Interior.

The proposed legislation with Haaland’s life and career has been ignored and our voices as Indian Country.

For too long, the Department of Interior has classified tribal consultation as a “dear tribal leader” letter. For even longer, the original stewards of this land have been ignored and our voices silenced. It is way overdue that an Indigenous person held the position of Secretary of the Interior that the Bureau of Land Management will also revert to its mission and cease to act as a realtor for multi-national extractive corporations. Public lands are ancestral Indigenous territories, yet the original stakeholders have been ignored from any decision-making process and hence many sacred lands and mountain ranges have been put up for grabs. The main species prospering on the great plains are nodding donkeys. It is time to systemically and institutionally address the issue of land rights. For too long, land rights have been ignored from any decision-making process and hence many sacred lands and mountain ranges have been put up for grabs.
Recently the Nimkee Fitness Center was able to improve and upgrade the facility with brand new equipment. Prior to this upgrade, the majority of the equipment had been at the Nimkee Fitness Center since it first opened 21 years ago. We are extremely grateful for this opportunity and are excited to share it with the community. Not only did we get new equipment, but we were able to improve the layout of the facility. We moved the cardio equipment to the front of the facility where it faces the windows for a better view and the strength equipment to the back. With other improvements, we were able to make the facility look and feel bigger.

One of the highlights is new Life Fitness cardio machines. These cardio pieces have large touchscreen monitors that display many features, which include: interactive terrains (mountains views, beaches, city tours), personal coaching, and various entertainment settings such as watching YouTube, Netflix, and utilizing other apps. With the changes and engaging opportunities such as this, we hope it will inspire our members. Now, more than ever, it is important to look to better your health by being active and improving your fitness. We are currently allowing a building capacity of 13 people into workout and require mask or face shields. We hope to see you soon to experience the new Nimkee Fitness.

EAGAN, Minn. — StrongHearts Native Helpline (1-844-7NATIVE) announced last month it will soon expand operations by offering advocacy services 7 days a week, 24 hours a day. The expanded service launches on Feb. 19 and coincides with the additional expansion of text advocacy later this year.

StrongHearts

Native Helpline is a culturally-appropriate, anonymous, confidential and free service dedicated to serving Native survivors, concerned family members and friends affected by domestic, dating and sexual violence.

StrongHearts is a project of the National Indigenous Women’s Resource Center and the National Domestic Violence Hotline.

“Throughout we work to make caring support available to all Native American and Alaska Natives as possible,” said StrongHearts’ Director Lori Jump (Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians). “Victim-survivors need to be able to reach out when it’s safe for them, around-the-clock, through a variety of means.”

According to the National Institute of Justice and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s 2010 National Intimate Partner and Sexual Partner Survey, Native Americans and Alaska Natives experience some of the highest rates of domestic and sexual violence in the United States. The study found that more than four in five American Indian and Alaska Native women had experienced violence in their lifetime, and one in three had experienced violence within the past year.

The study also examined how this violence affects tribal communities and Native survivors. For American Indian and Alaska Native people, the study found that half of women and nearly one in five men stated they needed victim services. With few options and supportive resources, Native American victims of abuse often go without assistance.

To address these inequities and better serve Native Americans and Alaska Natives, StrongHearts has been rapidly expanding. In 2020, StrongHearts launched online chat advocacy and sexual violence advocacy. As the pandemic continues and victim-survivors in abusive relationships are forced to shelter-in-place with their abusive partners it becomes even more vital to offer multiple communication options so victims can decide what is a safe and appropriate option for them.

As American Indian and Alaska Native communities continue to navigate the isolating effects of COVID-19, 24/7 expanded operations and text advocacy will allow those experiencing domestic and sexual violence to connect with a highly-trained advocate whenever they need free, anonymous and confidential support. Like online chat advocacy, text advocacy increases accessibility for individuals who may be hearing impaired and those who may be uncomfortable or unable to vocalize a call for support.

“We are eager to expand our services to reach every Native victim-survivor who needs help,” Jump said. “StrongHearts will continue our work until all of our relatives have the resources they need and are safe from violence.”

StrongHearts Native Helpline is a culturally-appropriate domestic, dating and sexual violence helpline for Native Americans, available by calling 1-844-762-8483 or clicking on the Chat Now icon on stronghearts helpline.org.
Report: First-ever national data regarding Native peoples’ perspectives toward COVID-19 vaccine

Seattle, Wash. – Urban Indian Health Institute (UIHI) released a study with the first-ever national data regarding American Indian and Alaska Native peoples’ knowledge, attitudes, and beliefs about a COVID-19 vaccine.

The study surveyed American Indians and Alaska Natives across 46 states – representing 318 different tribal affiliations – to gather information ranging from individuals’ willingness to receive a COVID-19 vaccine to the hurdles they face in accessing healthcare and resources.

“This data will be important to all organizations conducting COVID-19 vaccine education efforts,” said Abigail Echo-Hawk, director of UIHI. “Native communities have unique challenges and needs that usually are not considered in public health campaigns.”

American Indian and Alaska Native people continue to be disproportionately impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. The COVID-19 incidence and mortality rates are 3.5 and 1.8 times that of non-Hispanic whites, respectively.

While there has been worry about vaccine participation in Native communities, 75 percent of study participants claimed they would be willing to receive a COVID-19 vaccine, higher than the national average according to an Ipsos survey from October 2020, which indicates that 64 percent of the U.S. general population was willing to receive a vaccine.

“Willingness to receive a vaccine and hesitancy are not mutually exclusive,” said Echo-Hawk. “Fear and distrust of government and medical systems still exists in our community, which are hurdles that we have to overcome.”

Echo-Hawk hopes the report can start to create a better understanding of the unique perspectives of Native people.

“The data indicates that most Native people willing to be vaccinated feel it is their responsibility for the health of their community,” Echo-Hawk said. “This shows what motivates our community when it comes to decision-making.”

Report key findings:
- Seventy-five percent of participants were willing to receive a COVID-19 vaccine.
- Seventy-four percent of participants claimed that getting vaccinated is their responsibility to their community.
- Eighty-nine percent of participants wanted evidence that the vaccine is safe right now and in the long term, Echo-Hawk.
- Thirty-nine percent of all participants reported difficulty traveling to their clinic for an appointment.
- Two-thirds of participants willing to get vaccinated were confident that COVID-19 vaccines were adequately tested for safety and effectiveness among Native people.
- Seventy-five percent of participants willing to get vaccinated had concerns about potential side effects.
- Twenty-five percent of participants were unwilling to receive a COVID-19 vaccine.
- Ninety percent of participants unwilling to get vaccinated recognized COVID-19 as a serious disease.
- Eighty-nine percent of participants unwilling to get vaccinated had concerns about potential side effects.

Utilization of Nimkee Clinic for COVID-19 Testing

Purpose: To streamline testing of associates by utilizing additional resources for COVID testing.

Test Group: Tribal Operations

Phone: 989-775-4626 or 989-775-4637
Address: 2591S. Leaton Rd., Mt. Pleasant, MI

Testing hours: Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Closed: 12 - 1 p.m. for lunch • Appointment required

Associates testing process:

• Need for testing of associate identified per current policy/guidelines

• Form completed by direct manager/supervisor or designee to covid nimkee@sagichip.org

• Utilize “submit” button located by managers signature area on form to populate email

• Associate sent based on symptoms, exposure guidelines — dates may vary

• Appointment is required: Once Nimkee receives the form, they will call the staff member to make an appointment

• Associate will show for assigned appointment time — reinforcement to be on time due to appointments after associate

• Associate will park in front of the building, go to the door, ring the doorbell — Nimkee staff will bring associate in for the testing

• Associate will identify as an employee from Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort — Nimkee staff will know to address form

• Nimkee will call staff member with results

• Once testing is completed and test results are final form will be completed by Nimkee staff and delivered to "cvdnotify" email group from Nimkee to include test results and return to work (RTW) date

• Occupational Health may contact Nimkee to determine RTW information

• Nimkee will provide the test results

• If further testing is required, Nimkee staff will inform "cvdnotify" group, complete McLaren form and send staff member for testing — this process would be only activated for symptoms and it is negative, Nimkee feels test could be a false negative — process for dissemination of results would move forward per current procedure
