Project Venture holds Tribal Youth Healing Walk on Sept. 17

DOLORES WINN

Youth Program Coordinator

The Tribal Youth Healing Walk on Saturday, Sept. 17 was a very powerful and inspiring community event bringing together many people. We had 115 attendees who came out to support our youth and walk the path from the Eagles Nest Tribal Gym to 7th Generation.

Project Venture teens, 14-year-old Angelita Martinez and 12-year-old Sereniti Cole, stood at the front of our walk, carrying smudge and were able to smudge the Rez while we walked our path.

This healing walk came about because our Project Venture youth had noticed many other teens struggling with their mental health and struggling with thoughts and ideations of suicide. Our teen group wanted to raise more awareness for mental health and suicide prevention, so we decided to hold this healing walk in September during National Suicide Prevention Awareness Month.

We met each week starting in July and planned every part of the healing walk together. The students took the initiative to make this healing walk a huge community awareness event.

The Tribal Youth Healing Walk, to raise awareness for youth mental health, is underway on Saturday, Sept. 17, down Broadway Road from the Eagles Nest Tribal Gym parking lot and ending at 7th Generation.

We went to downtown Mount Pleasant on several occasions to drop off flyers. Sereniti Cole explained to all the businesses and organizations the purpose of our walk and kindly asked each business if they would like to participate or attend.

Our youth met many great people in Isabella County and were invited in to the Mt. Pleasant School of Dance to introduce themselves to the dancers there and make new connections with other youth. Our teens also went to the Mt. Pleasant Farmers Market to spread the word about the walk.

Angelica Hinmon, a 16-year-old Shepherd High School student, created the beautiful logo for our T-shirts and banners. She is a very talented and creative student who has been actively involved and enrolled in Project Venture Tribal Youth program for the past four years.

Angelica created this thoughtful logo in 10 minutes. She said the logo was originally inspired by a logo she made for Project Venture several years ago. She wanted to include lots of different Native floral designs in her logo, healing symbols such as the eagle feather waved above the abalone shell with medicines inside and the colors of the medicine wheel for healing.

We sent her design to Matthew Wright, graphic

James Michael Kemewun Smith

October 06, 1997 – August 24, 2022

Our beloved son, grandson, brother, nephew, cousin and friend began his journey to the spirit-world Wednesday, Aug. 24, 2022.

James was born on his great-grandfather's 77th birthday, Oct. 6, 1997, to Jim and Debra Smith of Mount Pleasant, Mich.

James had a big heart, kind soul and unforgettable smile. He was a natural born outdoorsman who loved spending time hunting or fishing.

His favorite time of year was when the salmon run. Every year he would make his way up north, tromp miles through the thick woods to get to his favorite fishing spot, unknowingly fishing in the same area of the same river our ancestors used to catch salmon.

When he was not spending time outdoors, he enjoyed being with his friends, playing cards, dice or just simply hanging out. He was, in his own words, "A Country Boy who loved to catch the salmon."

James is survived by his parents, Jim and Debra Smith of Mt. Pleasant, brother Matthew (Alexandria) of Mt. Pleasant, grandparents Michael (Belle) Zygmunt of Mt. Pleasant, Nan Trudy (Rick) Ralston of Mt. Pleasant, Linda Smith of Shepherd, uncle Alvin (Trina) Zygmunt of Mt. Pleasant, aunts Elizabeth (Jerry) Smith of Mt. Pleasant, Breanna (Andrew) Tatro of Shepherd, cousins Dylan Zygmunt, Benji Tatro, Lily Tatro, Brandi Smith as well as many great aunts and uncles, numerous second cousins and his best friend Jon Lownsbury of Shepherd. James was preceded in death by his great-grandparents, Jim and Rita Bailey, Al Zygmunt and Louella Martinez, grandfather Roger Smith, uncles Bill Smith, and Tommy Lilly.

James, our hearts will ache until we can be together again. We love you more than words can describe, Baamaapii our sweet boy.

A service for James was held Monday, Aug. 29 at Berry Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Pastors Ron Ives and Bill Champlin officiated.

Eliza worked in various positions throughout Anishnaabeg Child and Family Services, behavioral health, and youth treatment centers. She impacted countless numbers of lives throughout her life.

Eliza was passionate about her heritage; she was a cultural leader and teacher, loved beading and was voted best fry bread within the Tribe. She advocated for victims of domestic violence and ran a shelter in Canada for almost 10 years.

Eliza is survived by her children Frances (Darren) McGraw of Manitoulin Island, Canada, Melissa Owl (Jim Fulger) of Mt. Pleasant, Allan "Pete" (Alicia) Owl Jr. of Mt. Pleasant, Derrick Owl (Kristi Butler) of Mt. Pleasant; 11 grandchildren Tahsheenah, Chase, Aleigha, Max, Kashin, Alex, Blake, Jordanna, Lyric, Paul, Isaac; 13 great-grandchildren; sister Genevieve Chippeway (Robert Onnie Bennett) of Mt. Pleasant; and special friend Ronald Kwiatkowski of Weidman.

Eliza was preceded in death by her parents; sisters Eva and Anita; and daughter Jennifer Owl.

Funeral services were held at Clark Family Funeral Chapel on Friday, Sept. 2, 2022, at 3 p.m. with Benjamin Evers officiating. Interment followed at Denver Township Cemetery. A luncheon took place at the Tribal Gym immediately after burial. The family received friends at the funeral chapel that Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m.

Douglas Field Jackson

June 18, 1963 – August 22, 2022

Doug was also preceded in death by his wife, Betty Epperley Jackson; sister, Earlene D. Jackson; and brothers, Thomas Jackson, Daryle Jackson and Samuel Jackson.

He was longtime member of the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe.

Surviving are his sister-in-law and caregiver, Lisa Jones and husband, Jeff of Graham, N.C.; sister-in-law, Teresa Wright and husband James of Blacksburg, Va.; brothers, Eugene Jackson of Escanaba, Mich., Andrew Steele of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Arthur Steele of Mt. Pleasant, Mich.; good friend, Rendy Agee; and his beloved pets, Gypsy, Zippy and Birdie.

Rental Assistance for Housing for Client Hardship

Behavioral Health wishes to provide assistance to persons who are at risk of losing their housing. Behavioral Health's rental/mortgage assistance may be used to help individual households afford housing costs in the form of rent or mortgage. The maximum number of months allowed is three months in a 12 month span. Help with security deposits are not permitted under this assistance. With that in mind, the policy of Behavioral Health is to help all prospective applicants regardless of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, national origin, age, creed, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status, and status with regard to public assistance. Tribal Member Amber Boulley received the Outstanding Student of the Year in Economics award from Santa Barbara City

College in California.

The following was submitted about Boulley, written by Ruth Morales:

“Amber is a rising star in economic research. She is already using economic analysis to study the consequences of federal labor market policies on marginalized populations. She is committed to strengthening her toolkit to examine policies that affect Indigenous communities and is interested in furthering our understanding of the institutional and economic forces influencing their outcomes. Amber was accepted into the University of Chicago’s Economics Summer Institute and will pursue her bachelor’s degree at a top research university starting this fall. We are proud to have her as the 2021-2022

Outstanding Student of the Year in Economics and look forward to learning about her continued success. Congratulations, Amber!”

Boulley has been accepted to the University of California Berkeley for her graduate studies.

Michigan Department of Environment, Great Lakes and Energy visit Tawas Lake restoration project

JOSEPH SOWMICK

Public Relations Manager

On Sept. 1, the Environmental Team and Tribal Council Sgt.-at-Arms David Merrill Jr. welcomed a delegation of Michigan Department of Environment, Great Lakes, and Energy (EGLE) representatives to an onsite visit of the Tawas Lake restoration project.

Merrill was joined by members of the Environmental Team: Troy Techlin, Sally Kniffen, Dustin Hager and Katie Hager.

EGLE Director Liesl Clark was accompanied by her Chief of Staff Andy Draheim, Tribal Liaison Katie Lambeth, Geology Tribal Liaison Larry Englehart, Environmental Quality Analyst Andy Karge and Environmental Field Manager Ann Person.

Topics discussed included: Native culture and relations to wild rice, rare finds in the Tawas ecosystem (long nose Garr), eagle sightings, and plover and sandpiper habitats.

“Witnessing the largest wild rice bed in the state, learning about the central place wild rice plays in the culture and history of the Saginaw Chippewa Tribe, and spending time with good people who share a strong commitment to the environment was very enriching and rewarding,” Clark said. “We look forward to our continued work with Tribal Nations and the Michigan Wild Rice Initiative to help protect and restore manoomin in Michigan.”

Environmental Manager Troy Techlin said having the opportunity to host the rice beds tour will help support efforts to improve communication strategies for sharing information between state and tribal governments.

“The meeting on September 1st with EGLE leadership was a great opportunity to meet outside of an office setting,” Techlin said. “We enjoyed great weather and had some great conversations about what the Tribe is doing on Tawas Lake to protect and restore the wild rice. I hope to host many more meetings like this in the future with leadership from the State of Michigan. I feel when we can come together in the field to see and talk about topics first hand it allows for easier dialog and relationship building.”

Environmental Specialist Sally Kniffen said the restoration project began on Dec. 6, 2016 during the Cloutier administration.

“The State of Michigan Executive Office extended an invitation to Chief Frank Cloutier to begin a dialogue about issues related to restoration and management of wild rice in the state,” Kniffen said. “The goal of the initial meeting was to learn more about the range of values, perspectives and concerns about wild rice in Michigan.”

Cloutier now serves as Tribal Council’s District Three representative and reflected on the project’s implementation.

“During my term, we thought it was in our best interest to reclaim a substantial footprint within our aboriginal lands that would allow our members an opportunity to practice our treaty rights cultural practices and community programming,” Cloutier said. “It was clear back then that collaboration and education through programs such as ricing could assist with our cultural sharing.”

Liesl Clark said consulting and collaborating with Tribal Nations to protect Michigan’s land, water, and air – and the people, flora, and fauna it sustains – has been one of the responsibilities of her job as EGLE director that she values and enjoys the most.

“While I know I have only encountered a small share of the cultural teachings of Native tribes, I am inspired every time I have the opportunity to listen, learn, and experience them. More than anything, those teachings help me refocus on why we do what we do to protect Michigan’s environment and public health,” Clark said.

Clark continued, “The cultural teachings of Native tribes help reset my mind on our mission, the deep and enduring connection between people and the environment, and our obligation to leave this place better than we found it for future generations.”

During the tour, Clark heard about the Tribe’s environmental stewardship programs from members of the Environmental Team who are doing the work every day. Clark highlighted, in particular, those who spend much of their time in the never-ending battle to control invasive species.

“Among other initiatives, they are hand removing individual Eurasian Watermilfoil plants from the lake beds in Tawas to protect the wild rice, square-foot by square-foot by square-foot,” Clark said. “In the days since that visit, I was reminded that EGLE has just four team members who are 100 percent focused on aquatic invasive species. Protecting the environment is a big, painstaking job, and no one agency, Tribal Council, or other entity has the capital and human resources to get it done on their own. That is why it is so important to connect and partner with people and institutions who share values, see challenges from a similar perspective, and are united by a commitment and urgency to make a difference.”

The delegation saw the equipment on the specially rigged pontoon which featured giant suction hoses that bring the pulled weeds onto the boat for automated bagging to the booms that prevent fragmented weeds from escaping the area to seed and spread in other places.

Clark said she noticed the way in which the team is working its way across the lake bed parcel-by-parcel is deliberate and methodical.

“The team is doing the job that way to preserve the wild rice and protect it from outside pressures to spray harmful chemicals that would provide a quicker, easy option for controlling the invasive species,” Clark said. “It is impressive and honorable to work away at a daunting task like that with a combination of innovative thinking and problem solving and hard, grueling work.”

According to Outreach Specialist Katie Hager, animals and fish native to the ecosystem include: Long nose Garr, bluegill, northern pike, large and small mouth bass, perch, carp, catfish, crappie, sand hill crane, piping plover, black-bellied plover, Baird’s Sandpiper, American redstart, black tern, loon, whimbrel, turkeys, ducks and geese, beavers, bald eagles, and white tail deer and fawn.

Some of the highlights of native and non-native vegetation, according to Hager, include: Native species: pickerelweed, wild rice/Manoomin and white water lily. Invasive species: Common frog-bit, Eurasian watermilfoil, Virginia creeper, reed canary

Editorial: Environmental Team, Tribal College organize Chippewa River clean up

KATIE HAGER

Environmental Outreach Coordinator

On Wednesday, July 6, the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe's Environmental Team partnered with the Saginaw Chippewa Tribal College to organize the second annual cleanup of the Chippewa River.

A popular route of the river was chosen after Independence Day so that our cleanup would have the most impact.

To start off the event, we met at Deerfield Park on a sunny morning. With the assistance of Tribal Elder Daisy Kostus, we were able to bless and give thanks to nibi (water) while also asking for protection when being carried down the river in a beautiful water ceremony.

The ceremony is fulfilled by women as Anishinabek women have profound relationships with water.

After the water ceremony, trash and recycling bags were provided and passed around to each watercraft while participants were instructed on trash vs. recyclable items while also being given instruction on some invasive species present in the area so that our group did not contribute to the spread.

Volunteers then launched and collected trash from Deerfield to Meridian Park, which is about a three-hour paddle.

The groups' watercrafts consisted of mostly canoes, kayaks, and one paddleboard. Kayaks were used to access areas that were not navigable in canoes while the canoes offered great places to store/transport the larger, bulkier items that were collected along with sharp items. Trash collects and piles along the riverbanks, often becoming stuck in limbs or fallen trees.

Some of the trash collected included plastic, glass, aluminum cans and bottles, discarded shoes, fishing line, lawn decorations, and even a patio umbrella. More than five bags of recyclable materials were collected while four bags of trash were collected.

The trash was picked up and disposed of by Isabella County Parks and Recreation while the recyclable materials were brought back by the SCIT Recycling Coordinator Kevin Chamberlain to be recycled correctly.

Throughout the paddle, many of the volunteers noticed how plentiful the native vegetation was while also seeing animals and insects that attest to the health and the beauty of our ecosystems in Michigan. Some of this wildlife included turtles, fish, butterflies, bees, spiders, crayfish, many different types of birds, and even Dobsonfly larvae.

By removing trash and debris from the water we are not only making it safer for us, as recreational users, but for the overall health of the river system and all of the wildlife that call the river and surrounding areas home. Environmental waste and trash are hazardous to native birds, fish, and other wildlife directly harming habitats, releasing chemicals, and creating unsafe conditions for both humans and animals.

What can you do? Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle. Pick up trash whenever you can. Collect bottles, glass, plastic, newspapers, and/or old books and take them to your local recycling facility. Learn to compost at home. Clean and properly store tools, toys, and outdoor furniture.

When visiting beaches and parks, please take your trash with you when you leave: carry in, carry out. Save packaging and buy bulk whenever possible. Avoid single-use items whenever possible, especially when they are single-use plastic items.

Think green before you shop and instead look for sustainable or ecofriendly alternatives. Do you need it? Will you use it? Do you already own it? Can you borrow it? Is it built to last? Can you buy it used?

Sort your landfill trash, compost, and recyclables by utilizing sorting bins. Click "Recycling" on the SCIT website for more information or view <http://www.sagchip.org/Planning/Recycling-Program.aspx>.

We wanted to say chi-miigwetch to all of our hard-working volunteers who came and were determined to help clean our river that made the event so successful, to Isabella County Parks and Recreation for trash collection; to Kevin Chamberlain for supplying, aiding, and educating during our paddle; and to the Environmental and Tribal College team members that helped organize, load and unload watercraft while all sharing the significance of keeping our local areas and waters clean.

Racist slur removed from federal use in nearly 650 places

NATIVE ORGANIZERS ALLIANCE

(Editor's note: The following article has been sent to the Tribal Observer from Pyramid Communications.)

Washington, D.C. — On Sept. 8, the Department of the Interior announced that new names have been chosen to replace "sq--" from nearly 650 graphic features. The statement below from Judith LeBlanc (Caddo), executive director of Native Organizers Alliance, can be quoted in-full or in-part.

"This racist, sexist, and demeaning term for Native peoples has no place in our public spaces and has caused harm to our people for decades. Our Native women are caregivers, knowledge keepers, and the backbone of our communities. They deserve and have demanded better. We're happy to see the federal government take action to remove this word from use.

It's yet another example of why representation is so critically important. As a Native woman, Secretary Haaland understands the harm this term has caused and has taken action to make our public lands and spaces more welcoming for everyone."

Healing Walk

felt proud that her design has been shared with the Tribal community.

We hope to continue this walk every year and continue to raise awareness for mental health.

Our Project Venture youth and walk participants also created their own posters to hold during the walk. I was amazed to see how powerful their messages were. Lots of messages filled with hope and encouragement; things like: “Don’t Give Up. Your Story Is Not Over Yet. YOU MATTER. Choose Life. End the Stigma...It’s Ok to Talk about Mental Illness. It’s OK Not to be OK. Choose Love. You are not ALONE. Call 988 for Help.”

If youth are struggling with any mental health crisis or ideations of suicide, they can reach out to Behavioral Health counselors, Project AWARE counselors at the schools, Seventh Generation cultural programming, Isabella Child Advocacy, Rise Advocacy, the National Suicide Crisis hotline: 988.

Project AWARE also has a great list of community resources that teens or their families can get in contact with.

Project Venture collaborated with many different Tribal departments to plan and coordinate this healing walk. On behalf of Project Venture, we would like to extend a huge thank you to the following:

- Tribal Council members: Chief Theresa Jackson, Sub-Chief Jennifer Wassegijig and Treasurer Gayle Ruhl for being present at the healing walk
- 7th Generation staff for helping set up large tent for us, and letting us host our event at Ceremonial Building.
- Judy Pamp for her beautiful prayer and blessing before the walk began
- Alexis Syrette and Anna Winters for all their help in planning and coordinating walk
- Joseph Sownick for being an outstanding emcee and DJ for this event
- Lupe Gonzalez of the Tribal College for covering our food costs
- Sam Anglin for preparing the delicious meal of walking tacos

- Project AWARE counselors and therapy dogs for being onsite
- Zaagate Mentoring Program specialists Alicia Bowen and Jacqueline Wemigwans for hosting mental health booth
- Officer Joe Maxey and Tribal Police for being onsite to provide safety and direction on our walk
- Tribal Fire
- Isabella Child Advocacy Center for hosting booth with mental health resources
- Peer 360 Recovery Alliance for hosting booth with resources, support and prizes for community
- Project Venture Tribal Youth teens for their hard work in planning and leading this walk and smudging the Rez

- Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Libraries for resources and printing
- Bead & Powwow Supply for abalone shells for smudge kits
- Mahoney & Associates for creating our T-shirts and banners
- All of the Tribal youth, friends, and families who came out to support and partake in our healing walk
- All the amazing volunteers who helped set up and clean up event

It was very powerful to see the community come together for our youth and our families offering support and being a part of this healing experience.

We are grateful to have such a strong community here that provides all of these mental health services for our youth.

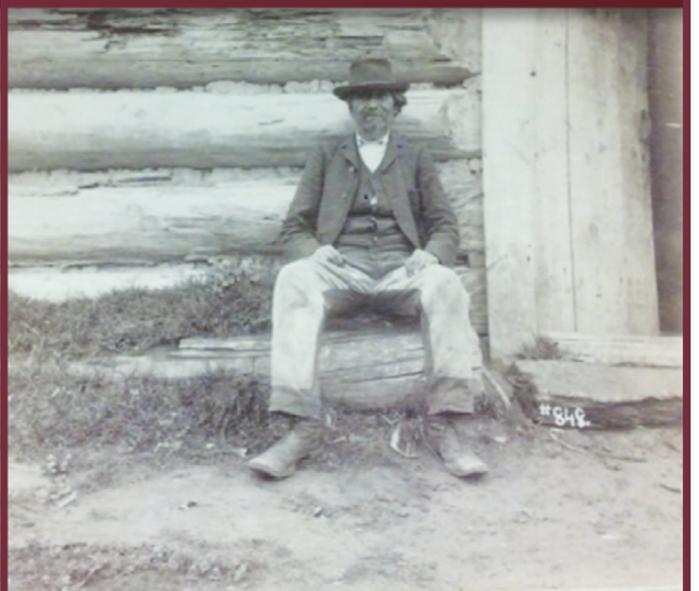

Project Venture looks forward to collaborating with the Tribal community for future events and providing cultural programming for our youth and families. It truly takes a village.

The Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe was recognized during the Central Michigan University Chippewas' Traditions Day home football game on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Surrounded by Tribal Council, Tribal community members and Central Michigan University officials and the football team, the Onion Creek singers performed an honor song on the football field before kickoff.

Tribal Council members Chief Theresa Jackson, Sub-Chief Jennifer Wassegijig, Treasurer Gayle Ruhl, Sgt.-at-Arms David Merrill Jr., Samantha Chippewa and Luke Sprague were recognized on the field during the first media timeout in the first quarter, alongside CMU President Robert Davies and Athletic Director Amy Folan.

"We are proud to showcase a part of our great culture with the CMU community," said Chief Theresa Jackson. "Having the opportunity to share a song from our community drum highlights not only the importance of our relationship, but also helps all community members better understand some of the great traditions

Stories shared, loved ones remembered during Overdose Awareness and Remembrance Day

NATALIE SHATTUCK

Editor

Wednesday, Aug. 31 was International Overdose Awareness Day, a day to honor those who have died from an overdose and to reflect on grief of those left behind. To recognize this day, an Overdose Awareness and Remembrance Day was held from 6 to 8 p.m. in Behavioral Health's backyard.

Tribal Council Chaplain Jennifer Wassegijig helped begin the event with a prayer and welcome.

"Thank you, everyone who honored your loved ones and those that shared their stories this evening," Sub-Chief Wassegijig said after the event. "I know it's not easy but you did it! I believe it's important to share our stories and hold this event annually; it helps us remember our loved ones, helps us heal, bring awareness and hope of saving a life in our community."

As a dinner of chicken alfredo, made by Sam Anglin, was served, presentations were held.

The Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Police Department presented information on the "Good Samaritan" law.

"You can't get in trouble if you call the police if someone has overdosed," the Tribal Police said.

Michigan's "Good Samaritan" law passed in 2016 "prevents drug possession charges against those that seek medical assistance for an overdose in certain circumstances. This law makes saving lives the priority during a drug overdose, not criminal prosecutions of illegal drug users" (Michigan.gov).

Sarah Deaton, case manager for Behavioral Health, provided information about NARCAN® Nasal Spray, a prescription medicine used for the treatment of a known or suspected opioid overdose emergency.

"All pharmacies in Mount Pleasant have NARCAN®," Deaton said. "Behavioral Health does too."

The event then offered an open invitation for anyone in attendance to share their experience, remember a loved one or share messages of strength and hope.

One attendee, Tammy, said she lost her son to an overdose.

"I know that he struggled for many years like I did," Tammy said at the event. "I'm glad I'm back in (Behavioral Health's) RTC (Residential Treatment Center), again. It's been 30 days now."

Another attendee, Andrew, shared his story about overdosing.

"You think you're just hurting yourself but you're hurting others," Andrew said. "I'm lucky to still be alive."

At the time of the event, Andrew said he has been in treatment for four months and it is his sixth time in treatment and he is "doing good today."

"I relapsed so many times but I never gave up on recovery," he said.

Through tears, Bernard and Bonnie Sprague spoke in memory of their daughter, Lindsey Sprague, who died of an accidental overdose of fentanyl.

Bonnie Sprague spoke about Lindsey's journey in treatment and shared stories about Lindsey.

The event was a collaboration between Tribal Court, Behavioral Health and the Housing Department to recognize American Indian Sobriety Month.

Members of the Match-E-Be-Nash-She-Wish (Gun Lake) Tribe, Buddrick Day and Wyatt Szpliet, offered a gift bundle to Saginaw Chippewa Tribal Council members in an effort to ask permission to harvest manoomin (rice) in Tawas Lake.

Day and Szpliet gifted Tribal Council on Wednesday, Sept. 7 in chambers.

"We appreciate Bud and Wyatt coming up and personally asking permission to harvest manoomin in Tawas Lake," said Chief Theresa Jackson. "It's always great to see young men following the cultural protocols and offering in a good Anishinaabe way."

"Their bundle that consisted of hand made goods and products from the Gun Lake community was thoughtful and a welcome gift to the Council," Chief Jackson said.

Kid Rock, Buckcherry combine for concert doubleheader at Soaring Eagle

MATTHEW WRIGHT

Staff Writer

Excitement was at an all-time high during the weekend of Sept. 3-4 at the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort. For the second straight year, musical sensation Kid Rock was in town for two back-to-back concerts. The Michigan-born singer-songwriter paired up with American rock band Buckcherry both nights.

Kid Rock kicked off his two-hour set with the heavy-hitting songs “Devil Without a Cause,” “You Never Met A... Quite Like Me,” “American Bad Ass” and “Cocky.”

Changing up the energy, Rock slowed it down with his feel-good, rock anthem “All Summer Long,” followed by “First Kiss” and “Don’t Tell Me How to Live.”

Hit songs “Rock n Roll Jesus” and “Only God Knows Why” were followed by the patriotic anthem “Born Free.”

Much to the delight of fans, Rock ended the night with a three-piece encore beginning with the politically-charged song “We the People” and the soulful hit “Rockin’.” Rock finished on a high note, with a spirited performance of “Bawitdaba.” American rock band Buckcherry opened for Kid Rock both nights. The band’s music is well-known for their old school rock ‘n’ roll attitude, rife with raunchy lyrics and hard rock riffs.

To kick off the rowdy fun, Buckcherry rocked through their hits “54321” and “So Hott.”

The melodic self-reflective ballad “Sorry” was followed by “Gluttony” and “Slammin’.”

To close out their set, Buckcherry performed the unruly, hard-edged single “Crazy B.”

One, two punch of Wiz Khalifa and G-Eazy highlight outdoor concert

MATTHEW WRIGHT

Staff Writer

The Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort hosted the one, two punch of rap/hip-hop artists Wiz Khalifa and G-Eazy on Saturday, Sept. 10. The artists combined for two memorable, one hour and 15 minute sets on the outdoor concert stage.

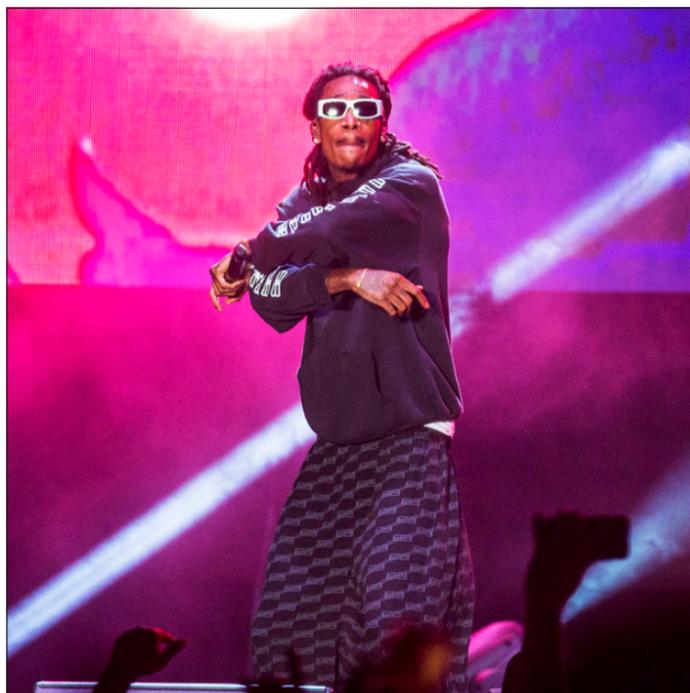

The easygoing, feel-good vibes of Wiz Khalifa were on full display during his set. Fans were there for a good time, and the American rapper was more than happy to provide it.

Khalifa began with “We Dem Boyz,” and his number one hit single “Black and Yellow.”

The set continued with “Or Nah,” “Remember You,” “You and Your Friends” and “The Thrill.”

A cover of Mike Will Made-It’s hit song “23” was followed by “Roll Up,” “Bake Sale” and “On My Level.”

Fans were treated to songs from throughout his career including “Memory Lane,” “Keys,” “Indica Badu,” “So High” and “Mezmemorized.”

To close out the night, he performed a four-piece encore of “We Will See Ya,” “Young, Wild & Free” and the number one charted song “See You Again.”

The show came to a fitting end with “Taylor Gang,” a song created as an ode to his legion of fans.

Opening the night for Khalifa was Bay Area rap legend G-Eazy.

G-Eazy performed a rapid fire set of hits including “I Mean It,” “The Plan,” “West Coast,” “Calm Down,” “Boss Tycoon” and “1942.”

Saving the best for last, he closed out his performance with a trio of the hit songs “Me, Myself & I,” “No Limit” and “Still Be Friends.”

World Mental Health Day, Oct. 10, 2022:

'Make mental health and well-being for all a global priority'

CENTRAL MICHIGAN
DEPARTMENT

Central Michigan District Health Department (CMDHD) would like to recognize World Mental Health Day on Oct. 10, 2022. Mental health awareness continues to hold an important role in the overall health and well-being of our world.

The efforts at increasing awareness and decreasing stigma regarding mental illness and behavioral health issues are helping, but we have more work to do.

The World Health Organization weighs in about worldwide mental health, stating the following:

- While the pandemic has taken, and continues to take, its toll on our mental health, the ability to reconnect through World Mental Health Day 2022 will provide us with an opportunity to rekindle our efforts to protect and improve mental health.

- The COVID-19 pandemic has created a global crisis for mental health, resulting in a more than 25 percent increase in both anxiety and depressive disorders compared to the first year of the pandemic. At the same time, mental health services have been severely disrupted, and the treatment gap for mental health conditions has widened.

- A staggering 84 million people worldwide were forcibly displaced during 2021. We must deepen the value and commitment we give to mental health as individuals, communities, and governments and match that value with more commitment, engagement, and investment by all stakeholders, across all sectors.

- Stigma and discrimination continue to be a barrier to social inclusion and access to the right care; it is important that we all play our part in increasing awareness about which preventive mental health interventions work, and World Mental Health Day is an opportunity to do that collectively. We envision a world in which mental health is valued, promoted, and protected; where everyone has an equal opportunity to enjoy mental health and to exercise their human rights; and where everyone can access the mental health care they need.

You can do your part in helping to raise awareness by being open with others about your own mental health and how you are feeling. Talk about emotions and struggles. Normalize the negative emotions that come through life stresses by acknowledging them and working through them, even seeking the help of a professional if needed. Be a listening ear for someone who is struggling in their own life.

Another important facet of helping increase mental health awareness and overall health in our communities is to be aware of the resources available for individuals who are experiencing a mental health crisis. Do not be afraid to point people in the right direction for local resources, even helping them make the call if necessary.

The newest resource is 988. Individuals can dial 988 for suicide prevention and mental health crises. In addition to the 988 number, you can call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255, or you can text HOME to 741741 to reach a crisis counselor.

Annual Peoples Traditional Powwow at Seventh Generation honors roots of our community

JOSEPH V. SOWMICK

Public Relations Manager

The seasons of change are upon us again and the changing of the leaves could be seen in the spirit of the 16th annual Peoples Traditional Powwow.

The festivities began in a good way with smudging of the Seventh Generation Powwow Grounds and lighting of the sacred fire on Aug. 26. The Friday evening kick-off ceremonies began with a meal featuring hot dogs, hamburgers and plenty of s'mores followed by lacrosse and a "Rez Jam" karaoke.

Food vendors, Native arts and crafts booths joined with the drummers, dancers and veterans as they prepared for Saturday, Aug. 27 grand entry processions at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The Anishinaabe Ogitchedaw Veterans Warrior Society joined Head Veteran and Lac Courte Oreilles Elder George Martin leading in the SCIT eagle staff, Seventh Generation eagle staff, veterans' staff, Ogitchedaw healing staff and Gun Lake healing staff followed by the SCIT, U.S., Canada, and State of Michigan flags and armed services flags.

Invited drums included host drum Eagle Flight Singers from First Nations London, Ontario, co-host drum River Wild from Dowagiac, Onion Creek Singers from Mount Pleasant, Mich. and Mission Hill from Bay Mills Indian Community.

Match-E-Be-Nash-She-Wish (Gun Lake) Tribal Member Shannon Martin served as powwow emcee and shared those duties with co-emcee Caden Pego.

Head Veteran George Martin (far right) and the Anishinabe Ogitchedaw Veterans Warriors Society lead grand entry into the powwow arena at Seventh Generation.

Serving as arena director and coordinator of contests and spot dances was Lac Courte Oreilles and Turtle Clan Tribal Member Robert "RJ" Smith.

"I'm really impressed with the Peoples Powwow because it's a huge community effort and I like the fact that so many people donate and give their time, efforts and resources to make sure everyone has a good time," Smith said. "Just coming onto the powwow grounds with the oaks and maple trees all around is just a feeling that's hard to put into words. Our teaching are just like that where you have to go to those communities to appreciate all those gifts that are there."

Tonya Antoine, administrative assistant II for Seventh Generation, worked alongside Lee Ann Ruffino, cultural manager, and her fellow staffers throughout the weekend and marveled how everything came together.

"The annual Peoples Powwow is a great time had by not only community members but those who travel near and far," Antoine said. "The setting is always welcoming and Seventh Generation staff strives for all to enjoy themselves and take a step back from their fast-paced lives to enjoy nature and our culture at its best."

The Sunday, Aug. 28 events included a spirited hand drum contest with first place going to Mission Hill. Runners up were Eagle Flight, followed by Caden Pego, Swifty Jay and AOVWS Warriors Nathan and Dr. Minnie Martin.

The Jackson family was on hand to support and honor the hand drum singers who participated.

The special event of the weekend was a jingle dress dancer Hope Stevens to Tribal youth Olivia Pelcher. Tears of joy and gratitude filled the arena as many reflected how they remembered when regalia was handed down and feasts were held in honor of those ceremonies.

Chief Theresa Jackson and her husband Darryl were on hand to present two lucky youth with new bikes, courtesy of the Jackson family.

Seventh Generation, Antoine said, would like to send special chi-miigwetch to: "Our head staff, the SCIT Housing department, Ziibiwing, SCTC Extension, MMCC, Meijer, PR department, Council, Julie Snyder, Shannon Martin, Caden Pego, R. Smith and Joe Sowmick. Without these people, we would not have a successful event."
