In Observance of the Saginaw
Chippewa Nation's Holiday

This day marks the opening of the annual Saginaw Chippewa Powwow, a cherished tradition that brings together Tribal citizens, families, and visitors to celebrate Anishinaabe culture, community, and heritage. Powwow serves as a time to honor our ancestors, strengthen connections across generations, and share traditions through song, dance, and fellowship.

As one of the Tribe's most significant cultural gatherings, the Saginaw Chippewa Powwow reflects the enduring strength, resilience, and vitality of our people. The Saginaw Chippewa Nation's Holiday provides an opportunity for Tribal citizens and employees to participate in and support this important celebration while reaffirming our commitment to preserving and passing on our cultural traditions for future generations.
